

DOWNLOAD PDF 11. THE IMPERIAL ROMANCE LAURA CHRISMAN

Chapter 1 : Table of Contents: The Cambridge history of South African literature

Rereading the Imperial Romance British Imperialism and South African Resistance in Haggard, Schreiner, and Plaatje Laura Chrisman. A Clarendon Press Publication.

Staff View Table of Contents: Machine generated contents note: Oratures, Oral Histories, Origins: A contextual analysis of Xhosa iimbongi and their izibongo Russell H. I sing of the woes of my travels: Exploration, Early Modernity and Enlightenment at the Cape, Empire, Resistance and National Beginnings, Writing settlement and empire: The mission presses and the rise of black journalism Catherine Woeber; The imperial romance Laura Chrisman; The beginnings of Afrikaans literature H. Modernism and Trans-National Culture, Black writers and the historical novel: The Dertigers and the plaasroman: Roy Campbell, Herbert Dhlomo, N. The metropolitan and local: Apartheid and Its Aftermath, the Present: Writing in exile Tlhalo Raditlhalo; Afrikaans literature Hein Willemse; Afrikaans literature after The liberal tradition in fiction Peter Blair; Writing the prison Daniel Roux; The lyric poem during and after apartheid Dirk Klopper; Writing and publication in African languages since Christiaan Swanepoel; Rewriting the nation Rita Barnard; South Africa in the global imaginary Andrew van der Vlies; Confession and autobiography M. Daymond and Andries Visagie; Writing women Meg Samuelson; The book in South Africa Peter D.

Chapter 2 : African Atlantics and Imperial Culture: Critical Directions Past, Present and Future | ASU Event

Rereading the Imperial Romance is an important text for South African literary studies. Chrisman's nuanced reading of the interrelationship between history, politics and literary production provides fruitful scope for re-evaluating other marginalised writers and their interaction with colonialism.

Chapter 3 : Complex Relations: African Nationalism, Imperialism, and Form in Mhudi - Oxford Scholarship

'Rereading the Imperial Romance is an important text for South African literary studies. Chrisman's nuanced reading of the interrelationship between history, politics and literary production provides fruitful scope for re-evaluating other marginalised writers and their interaction with colonialism.

Chapter 4 : Gendering imperialism: Anne McClintock and H. Rider Haggard : Postcolonial Contraventions -

This book examines literary romance as a vehicle for the ideological contradictions of British imperialism in South Africa from to Drawing on postcolonial theory and cultural materialism, Laura Chrisman discusses the fictions of mining (King Solomon's Mines) and Zulu history (Nada the Lily) by the imperialist Rider Haggard, and shows how feminist Olive Schreiner and black.

Chapter 5 : Laura Chrisman | LibraryThing

Laura Chrisman Print publication date: Rereading the Imperial Romance Author(s): Laura Chrisman Publisher: 7 Transforming Imperial Romance: Anti-Colonial.

Chapter 6 : Rereading the Imperial Romance - Laura Chrisman - Oxford University Press

[Access article in PDF] Rereading the Imperial Romance: British Imperialism and South African Resistance in Haggard, Schreiner, and Plaatje, by Laura Chrisman; pp. Oxford and New York: Clarendon, , Â£, $

Chapter 7 : ENGL A: Special Studies In Literature | Department of English | University of Washington

DOWNLOAD PDF 11. THE IMPERIAL ROMANCE LAURA CHRISMAN

Get this from a library! Rereading the imperial romance: British imperialism and South African resistance in Haggard, Schreiner, and Plaatje. [Laura Chrisman] -- This text examines literary romance as a vehicle for the ideological contradictions of British imperialism in South Africa.

Chapter 8 : Laura Chrisman | Open Library

Romance, Laura Chrisman has written a brilliant monograph on South African literary history, or to be more precise, that moment across the nineteenth-century when it was under British imperial domination.

Chapter 9 : Laura Chrisman (Editor of Colonial Discourse/ Post-Colonial Theory)

Rereading the Imperial Romance: British Imperialism and South African Resistance in Haggard, Schreiner and Plaatje. Oxford University Press. Oxford University Press. Laura Chrisman.