

Chapter 1 : 'We have a friend in the White House' - Israel National News

The mainstream media "O utrage Machine" is at it again. By Kent Heckenlively, JD. Bill Shine on his way home The target this time is Darla Shine, the wife of Bill Shine, the new White House Deputy Chief of Staff for Communications.

The results could unfold before our eyes, leaving us with breathless awe, asking the question: How did they pull it off? David Panton and Ted Cruz have been friends for the last 25 years, they attended one of the most prestigious universities at young ages, 17 and 20, and have since maintained a bond. Ted was like a lightning rod for controversy and a stickler for process and was disliked by many of his classmates until his friendship with the popular and extremely likeable Jamaican. They became debate partners and roommates for the rest of their time at Princeton and continued when they went to Harvard Law School, winning the North American Championship in and becoming the top two debaters in the country. They both participated in political studies. Resulting from their close friendship, they became business partners. Cruz has made numerous visits to the island. Panton and a deep-rooted lobbyist and consultant in the Republican Party, Maria Strollo Zach who leads a super-PAC called Stand for Principle, were instrumental in convincing Cruz to run for president. Cruz had just began to emerge publicly from the gutters of obscurity and, from his good performance in the debate on Wednesday night, could be timed for that occasion to make his run for the wire. His poll numbers should be moving in the upward direction. Cruz is the howling favourite to get a fair percentage of those votes, which may see him getting a big bump in the polls in the next few weeks. Who is David Panton? For many, Panton might be best known for his innate love of brilliant beautiful women not falling below the number one in the world or universe in competitive contests. His brilliance as a Rhodes Scholar, which he received a doctorate in management studies from Oxford University, the youngest of his undergrad class, and among the youngest holders of a PhD from Oxford. He must be in the top 20 most brilliant Jamaican of all times, maybe not too far for the legendary Monsignor Wilson, who ranked sixth in the world in the 60s for brilliance. Panton was vice-president of a venture capital company, Mellon Ventures. Not satisfied with having abundant knowledge, he devoted some time teaching a private equity course once per year at Emory University, said to have the best cancer research hospital in the world. Panton seemed by many, including myself, to be perfectly carved and moulded as the future of political leadership in the country. That was not to be; he migrated to Atlanta in For some, it is an indicator of the mettle of the man. Who is Ted Cruz? At 33, Cruz became a Texas-appointed state solicitor general, becoming the youngest in American history. Also viewed as one of the top constitutional litigators in the country, in he was named one of 25 greatest Texas lawyers in the last three decades. He then won the Senate seat in by beating his Democratic rival by 16 points. He is the first Hispanic-American to serve as US senator. In he was appointed to four Senate committees and ranking member of two subcommittees -- Space, Science and Competitiveness; and Constitution, Civil and Human Rights. The leading voice that triggered a day government shutdown over the implementation of the Affordable Care Act Obamacare , he was not liked by members of Congress. Cruz admits he is a social conservative; his message fits ideally with the public feelings: He has an excellent chance to get the majority of those votes. Raising more money, next to Bush, with the help of his candidate committee and super PACs, while keeping his money under control, so he has tens of millions of dollars waiting to be spent at the opportune time. He is the standard-bearer for articulating the current mood of the GOP base. His chances in the Iowa caucus are well-plotted. He has the best profile in a deeply socially conservative southern state. He was an integral part of the George Bush re-election and was rewarded with a promotion to director of policy at the Federal Trade Commission. It is obvious his ambition to jump the nomination hurdles have been well-planned and will be surgically executed leaving the real surgeon on the team a major casualty along his path towards victory. Does he have the credentials to be commander-in-chief? Is David Panton waiting to be on the podium if his friend becomes the nominee, and then an official guest at the inauguration January ? And which candidate will get the blessing of the Republican establishment? Send comments to the Observer or tonymiles@gmail.com.

Turbocharged by the threat of bans and restrictions, U.S. weapons sales accelerated during the Obama administration, especially for the AR semiautomatic rifle. An industry that thrived on panic.

Heyer, who was known for her passionate advocacy for the downtrodden. And the Nazi websites rejoiced. We asserted ourselves as the voice of white America. Many of these white men were carrying Trump campaign signs and wearing Trump campaign regalia. Old Wine in a New Bottle Despite the technologically new ways ideas are shared in social media the Charlottesville hate-fest was really just a manifestation of old-fashioned racism. In September , Robert F. Hearing about the spectacle Kennedy said: Today, we have an Alabaman attorney general who has his own checkered past regarding race. And we have racists in the White House. Scott Pruitt, who heads the EPA, surrounds himself with armed guards and his rollback of regulations promises more catastrophic examples of environmental racism like we saw in Flint, Michigan. Internet culture, with its irreverence, in-joke parody, and faux irony shaped their ideology and allowed for the forming of armies of trolls. But lurking just beneath the surface were genuinely sinister ideas, motives, and objectives that were lost amidst the maze of seemingly harmless irony and sarcasm. The alt-right accuses traditional conservatives of metaphorically cuckholding their women folk, their nation, and their race to black people and non-white foreign invaders. And the chilling memo written by another Pepe-the-Frog in the White House, Rich Higgins, a staffer with the National Security Council who lost his sweet government gig after some adult in the room had the sense to force him out, reflects this jaundiced view of legitimate dissent in America. No wonder the Nazis have come out of the woodwork " that bogus and authoritarian view of dissent in a democracy is identical to the one Adolf Hitler espouses in Mein Kampf. In fact, at times Hitler himself would issue conciliatory statements for public consumption even while his Brown Shirts were in the streets pummeling liberals, leftists, and Jews. Ordinary Germans holed themselves up in their homes as the Nazi movement took over the streets. You know the rest of the story. The Nazi website, The Daily Stormer, has promised: We are going to start doing this nonstop. Despite it all - as we approach the 50th anniversary of the murder of Martin Luther King, Jr. We must organize all people of good will to push back strongly and uncompromisingly against the rise of fascism in this country through nonviolent civil disobedience and nonviolent confrontation. President Barack Obama, whose stature is rising each minute the country and the world is forced to endure the embarrassment and disgrace of the Trump regime, had a comment on Charlottesville: People must learn to hate, and if they can learn to hate, they can be taught to love.

Before Barack Obama came here as a United States senator, before Adrian Fenty was elected DC mayor, the two met in Boston at the Democratic National Convention.

I have provided the link to The Washington Post article remember, democracy dies in darkness! Paramount among them is wanting rappers to remove the N-word from their lyrics. What will we do if rappers stop using the N-word? At the risk of offending free speech purists I want to make a suggestion. Can we at least agree on that? Please explain that twisted logic to me. According to The Washington Post, she has tweeted about the danger of vaccines at least a dozen times. I grew wanting to not be like my mother. She was always cooking, cleaning the house, drinking coffee with her girlfriends and to me her life seemed so mundane. I wanted to be with my baby. Times were tough adjusting to losing half our income. So we stayed home and I cooked. It was those days when I had to make one piece of meat turn into four meals that I learned how creative I was, and how easily I could cut back and stretch my budget. I am still creating projects for myself and I am still lucky to be home with my children. So I decided to make a statement by writing Happy Housewives. I am here to shout out to all homemakers that it is okay to be home, and if you are going to do it, do it proudly. Here is what he sent out in an email blast. Other outlets in the corporate media echo chamber are picking up the accusations. I know Darla Shine. She is not a racist, or any of the other nasty names being hurled against her. She is, however, very concerned about autism, and vaccine safety. And does anyone who pays any attention doubt that is the real basis for the attacks against her? Drug companies are the leading source of advertising dollars for the corporate media as well as political campaign contributions. And does anyone doubt that the goal here is to warn off anyone connected to the administration from stepping out of line? And that you too are concerned about vaccine and pharmaceutical safety and want to see real action taken by the administration to protect our children from vaccine injury, and stem the exponential growth of the autism epidemic. Skyhorse also publishes the work of Mo Yan, the recipient of the Nobel Prize in literature. The book is co-authored with Judy Mikovits PhD.

Modi: Thank you, Mr President, yes I had to shorten my name after the media got after me for a suit I wore while sitting with your predecessor. It had my full name monogrammed! Trump: We have much in common. Fake media, fake news. Talking of buildings, we need to build on the relationship between the US and India. You have a great reputation and you are a terrific guy, according to my friend Putin. India is a fantastic country, fantastic place. Hindus are the most intelligent people, your country is amazing. All the Hindus I know are fantastic people. Thank you, yes Hindu civilisation is an ancient one and we invented many wondrous things in the Vedic ages, but I have to tell you! Trump: Do you remember what I said in my campaign speech in New Jersey, that the Hindu community will have a bigly friend in the White House? Yes, I remember but I have to tell you! I like to tweet my executive decisions. I can tell we are going to be great friends, best friends, BFF. Have I told you how much I love Hindu! Modi: Yes you have, but I need to tell you something about India! Trump: I must send you a monogrammed copy of my book. The fantastic thing about India is that it has been a great friend to the United States in the fight against Islamic terrorists.. Yes, we must be united against terrorism but I need to point out! Trump: By the way Namoh, I am so excited to be working with you. I am doing some serious bureaucratic trimming right here in the United States. Making America great again. I am also making India great, without the again. I still need to point out that we have a lot of minorities here as well. I know the feeling. Some bad dudes are in this country, drugs, guns, counterfeit currency, cross-border crime. Wish I could build a wall between us and that country which encourages terrorism. It is not on the list of seven I hear you are planning to ban immigrants from but it would be nice if it can be on the list you are working on for Extreme Vetting. Talking about extreme vetting, I have some concerns about your proposals on visas. You have a best friend in the White House now, not that Muslim immigrant from Kenya. Not my visa, the H1B ones. My guys have proposed doubling the salary they get. As I said, you Hindus have a friend in the White House. Did you find apk for android? You can find new Free Android Games and apps.
