Alaska Administrative Code citations are cited by title, chapter and section: Appellate Court Slip Opinions and Memorandum Opinions Published Decisions Only the decisions of the Alaska appellate courts - the supreme court and court of appeals - are published and may be cited as precedent. Trial court decisions are not published and have no precedential authority. The supreme court is the highest court in Alaska and has final state appellate jurisdiction in civil and criminal matters. The court of appeals has the authority to hear appeals in cases involving criminal prosecution, post-conviction relief, juvenile delinquency, extradition, habeas corpus, probation and parole, bail, and sentencing matters. Supreme court opinions and court of appeals opinions decisions are issued on Fridays. A decision is removed from the website once it is published in the Pacific Reporter P. Alaska appellate opinions are also published in the Alaska Reporter, which is a collection of the Alaska cases from P. Slip opinions are cited by case name, opinion number, court and date: These are issued on Wednesdays, and posted on the court system website. MOJs may not be cited as precedent. Memorandum opinions are cited by case name, opinion number, court and date: State, Memorandum Opinion No. Opinions can be searched in a number of ways, including keyword, case name, and judge. More information is provided on the help screen. Go to top of page Return to Library Homepage Return to Court Homepage Alaska Rules of Court Supreme Court Orders The Alaska Rules of Court are the rules for the administration of all courts in the state and for practice and procedure in civil and criminal cases established by the supreme court. The current rules are available online on the court system website, and the print version is available at all Alaska Court System law libraries and some public libraries. The rules are published annually in October. Rules of Court are cited by type of rule and rule number: The Alaska Legislature website provides information about pending legislation. The Administrative Bulletins referenced by the Alaska Rules of Court can be found on this web site, along with a few other selected bulletins. Alaska Pattern Jury Instructions Attention: These instructions are NOT for persons who have been summoned for trial or grand jury service. Pattern jury instructions are used by the trial judge to instruct members of the jury on the law applicable in the case before them. Lawyers may also use pattern jury instructions as they prepare for trial to ensure they address all the elements of their case. These instructions have not been approved or promulgated by any court or the Alaska Bar Association. Some forms are fill-in-the-blank, while others only provide language that you will need to tailor to your situation. Forms are not available for every situation, and you should consider consulting an attorney to assist you. Court staff cannot advise you about what language to use and library staff cannot select forms for you. Some of these forms are available on the Court System website. The forms are available at all court locations , and the Forms Book is available for review at the Anchorage, Juneau and Fairbanks law libraries. Selected Alaska Appellate Court Forms are also available online. The NALS of Anchorage Handbook formerly the Anchorage Legal Secretaries Handbook provides explanations of some legal procedures and sample language that may help you prepare documents in the areas of adoption, bankruptcy, divorce, and probate.
