Chapter 2 : Book Review: The Monk Who Sold His Ferrari

"The monk who sold his Ferrari" can be called as life-changing novel! These kind of novels add essence to your life and gives you direction specially in the hard times.

About the Author Robin S. Robin Sharma also conducts seminars and training programs worldwide. In , he was ranked 7th on the International Leadership Professional Gurus list. The story is about Julian Mantle, an enormously rich and successful litigation lawyer having an opulent life, who has achieved everything most people could ever want. And finally he decides to abandon his hell-like-life and sells out all his possessions and goes to the Himalayan Mountains in search of peace, tranquility and a real purpose of life. There he meets Yogi Raman, one of the sages at the Himalayas, who teaches him various important things which is essential to lead an enlightened life. Spending a few months at Himalaya, Julian gets back to meet John, his junior, and narrates him the complete story behind his transformation. He tells him how he reached Himalaya and how Yogi Raman and other saints helped him have the wisdom of living. He narrates the whole story to John with a condition to spread this wisdom further to others. Lessons to be learnt The book majorly runs through the seven virtues of enlightened living, explained step- by- step with the help of some stories, quotes and symbols. Here is a gist of those lessons: If there is a lack in your life it is just because of lack in your thoughts. Follow your Purpose Discover the purpose of your life. Set clear goals to achieve it, and have the courage to act upon them. A life without purpose is a life wasted. Never do anything because you have to. The only reason to do something is because you want to and because you know it is the right thing for you to do. Practice Kaizen To practice Kaizen means attaining self-mastery through continuous self-improvement. You have to improve yourself regularly. Identify the things holding you back. Once you have identified what your weaknesses are, next is to face them and attack them. Fears are nothing more than a negative consciousness. Live with discipline It is very important to build your willpower. To build a will of iron, it is essential to take small steps of personal discipline. Lack of willpower is a mental disease. An abundance of willpower and discipline is one of the chief attributes of all those with strong characters and wonderful lives. Respect your time Time is your most precious commodity and it is non-renewable. Plan your days and take time to check you were balanced in the use of time, and you would not only feel far productive but far happier too. Just take the time for all those things that makes you happy and simplify your life. Focus on your priorities and maintain balance. Always remember that enlightened people are priority driven. Selflessly serve others A little bit of fragrance always clings to the hand that gives you roses. When you work to improve the life of others, you indirectly elevate your own life in the process. The noblest thing you can do is to give others. No matter what have you achieved, no matter how bulky is your bank balance, no matter how many cars you own, the quality of life will come down to the quality of your contribution. So, try to give people anything you have, it might be helping them with money, with wisdom or with anything you are capable of. We were born crying while the whole world rejoiced, but we should live our lives in such a way that when we die, the world cries while we are rejoicing. Just do the things you love to do, right now. People ruin their present either frowning about past or thinking a lot about the future. Happiness is the journey and not the destination. Review Author has tried well to teach some important lessons to lead an enlightened and beautiful life through a fable. The lovers of motivational books will definitely like the book. The story has been crafted with the help of some symbols for each of the seven virtues like- The magnificent garden, the towering lighthouse, the Sumo wrestler, the pink wire cable, the gold stopwatch, the fragrant rose, the path of diamonds. This would aid the readers to reconnect to the respective lesson easily. A point-wise summary is provided at the end of each chapter and therefore you need not note down important points to remember. The attractive title and the cover page of the book definitely hooks up the expectations of the readers and creates a curiosity to read the fable, however, the book might not match up the expectation, as it contains nothing but a heavy bunch of principals to be followed. This might lead the readers to shut the book down amidst reading. Conclusion Overall, I would recommend everyone to read this book and more especially, the people running into chaos due to work pressure and lack of time management should read this book with patience. I would also recommend the readers to gradually start incorporating these lessons into their daily routine to get the best out of the book.
