Nonsense, counter civil liberties activists. That heated debate may recede if senators, set to meet in an unusual Quick Read Sunday session, decide to accept a House-passed bill that extends the programs and then send the measure to President Barack Obama to sign before midnight. This collection was authorized under one of the expiring provisions, Section of the Patriot Act. The fight over those records has jeopardized other surveillance programs that have broad, bipartisan support. The FBI uses Section to collect other business records tied to specific terrorism investigations. A separate section in the Patriot Act allows the FBI to eavesdrop, via wiretaps, on suspected terrorists or spies who discard phones to dodge surveillance. Protesters gather at mosque under supervision West: Officials say man impaled, killed by swordfish Nation: The rally initially was organized by a Phoenix man who said he is a former Marine who fought in the Iraq War and believes Islam is a violent religion. About people with guns, American flags and drawings of the Prophet Muhammad rallied on the street Friday outside the Islamic Community Center. On the opposite side were another protesters, some holding signs promoting love and peace, who came to show their support for the mosque and Muslim community. The fish was a swordfish about 3 feet long with a bill about 3 feet, the state Department of Land and Natural Resources said in a statement. It weighed about 40 pounds. Firefighters tried to resuscitate the man, who had a puncture wound to his right upper torso, said Whitman. They said the bodies were supposed to be cremated but instead were being stored in cremation boxes and body bags. Diane Barnett said the concern is over the condition of the bodies and their identification. The year-old FIFA president dismissed suggestions that a United States government investigation of corruption in soccer could lead to his door. Several senior FIFA officials have been arrested already, but Blatter dismissed the notion that he could be next. Stranded by Jackie Merritt Former corporate whirlwind Gunnar Royce had left the cold business Deep cover by Annette Broadrick Melody Young was in for a shock when an injured Ryan O'Rourke convinced her to take him on her vacation.

Envisioned by Anne Marie Feeney of Royal 4 Home Services and sponsored by the Avon Park Chamber of Commerce and Main Street Community Redevelopment Agency, it will have 40 artificial decorated and lit Christmas trees along the pathway, accessible by candy canegates with banners guarded by foot-tall toy soldiers. Feeney said its a way for businesses to advertise and encourage pedestrian traffic. Plus, its a way for her to give back to the community, she said. I love this town. Anything I can do to make things better, I will, Feeney said. Thursday found Feeney on site with city workers and her daughter, Anna Hogan, to measure out the site and place holders in the ground for each tree. Hogan, burying the holders by hand, said she shares her mothers love for Avon Park. She moved from West Palm Beach for many reasons, but mostly for the character of the town. Its a better place to raise kids, Hogan said. Feeney plans not to place the trees until Dec. The trees will be lit at a ceremony 15 minutes before the start of the Christmas parade, she said. All trees will be artificial trees between 7 and 8 feet tall, lit and decorated with no religious items. Businesses must deliver the trees to Feeney no later than 9 a. Feeney chose artificial trees so there would be no chance of having them dry out and catch fire from a lit cigarette or broken bulb. That would endanger historic oak trees her company recently cleaned of Spanish moss. Highlands County is also having and increased trouble with bears, especially in the Sylvan Shores and Highlands Park Estates areas, as well as in the Lake Placid area and most recently near Avon Park. Charles Andrews, Highlands County Fire Services supervisor, said the fire call came in shortly after lunch at It was out by 3: Deputies were sent to the scene to help evacuate homes near Lake August and provide traffic control, if needed, she said. It turns out that wasnt necessary, Andrews said. Although two homes were in danger, firefighters kept the flames at bay. There was no damage at all, Andrews said. The fire stretched ove r approximately 10 acres, give or take a few acres, he said. Five acres was the largest part. Fire crews got percent containment, he said, and left a 30to 40foot wet line inside th e perimeter to contain any wind-whipped flames. Winds were blowing strong Friday and were expected to stay strong through Veterans Day weekend, he said. Florida Forest Service had at least five firefigh ters on scene while he had 13 from various departments. The fire is suspicious until arson is ruled out. Florida Forest Service is doing the investigation. Five former members visited the park during the event where attendees showed their respect to the men. Bonnaville, 94, worked in Maine where he recalled the cold weathe r. I worked on the roads. The snow was this high; it was so cold, Bonnaville said. One former member, Hamm, who worked in Chipley just celebrated his 99th birthday and was happily telling stories about what he recalled from his years working for the CCC. I worked for 27 months. I was in the kitchen and out doing other things in the park, Hamm recalled. O fficials of the Florida Fish and W ildlife Conservation Commission say i t starts with the bruins getting into the t rash, which leads to other problems. Areas of concern include; Sylvan S hores and Highlands Park Estates as w ell as a number of ongoing issues in t he Lake Placid area and most recently a round Avon Park. The bulk of the reports have been b ears getting into garbage cans a lthough there have been some i nstances of them trying to get into u nsecured chicken coops and even taki ng some free range fowl. So far, there h ave been no reports of bears trying to g et into structures or vehicles or conf ronting humans in Highlands County a lthough there have been reports of residents observing bears getting into the trash. FWC Wildlife Assistance Biologist Angeline Scotten now reportedly has embarked on an educational tour to teach residents in rural areas preventative measures. We will be making general presentations about bear biology and how to deter bears from coming into urban areas, she said. Last week FWC officials canvassed Highlands Park Estates, putting out door hangars and today they will be making a presentation to the homeowners association there, giving out additional information, answering questions and taking any further reports. Were trying to get the message out there about securing their trash cans and such. Its pretty easy to coexist with bears as long as the attractions are secured, Scotten said. Although it is not until spring that bears go on the move in search of new territory, this is the time of year they do look to put on fat for their winter hibernation. That means that activity can be any time of the day or night. She plans to light the trees just before the annual Christmas parade on Dec. 7 in Tampa, to relocate it. The public is invited to attend. The program includes opening welcome by Dr. SFSC thanks all veterans for their service to our country in the past and for their service to the community today. All above referenced road closures will be reopened by 2: A northbound and southbound detour will be established so that vehicles traveling on State Road 17 will be able to circumvent the event area. The northbound detour begins at South Ridgewood Drive SR 17 at the intersection of Franklin Street where northbound vehicles will be directed to turn left onto Franklin Street. Traffic will then follow North Pine Street to the intersection of Park Street where vehicles will turn left. Park Street will be taken to the intersection of Lakeview Drive where traffic will turn left. Lakeview Drive will then be followed to the intersection of South Ridgewood Drive, ending the southbound detour. All questions relating to this road closure may be directed to Karl Hoglund of the Sebring Police Department by email at karlhoglund@mysebring. This year the luncheon is being held at the Bert J. Ag Center on U. The luncheon is a simulation of a needy family's lunch meal a bowl of soup, a slice of bread, an apple and a bottle of water. But the luncheon is more than a lunch meal. And, Nala Price will perform vocal selections for the group. These talented student entertainers are from Highlands County. There will also be a silent auction of wonderful items that anyone would want to own. Some original items are a signed photograph of Clint Eastwood and a DVD of his movie Gran Torino, gold wrapped pendant and earrings set, children's dolls, and numerous other items. Proceeds will help raise funds to aid in the battle to eliminate hunger in Highlands County. Samantha Rae Clark, 37, of Lake June Road in Lake Placid, has been charged with burglary and grand theft of emergency medical equipment in connection with the theft of a medical box from a Highlands County Emergency Medical Services ambulance. She was also given a failure to appear charge along with the other charges filed last Tuesday, reports said. According to reports, she told Lake Placid Police Chief James Fansler that she had stolen the box in hopes of finding narcotics, having learned from a former boyfriend what kinds of medicines were kept in an ambulance. Reports said Fansler recovered some of the stolen items from Clark, who said her former boyfriend had burned most of them and had only kept a few. The theft apparently took place between midnight and 6: The missing box was an orange plastic box measuring 30 inches long, 20 inches wide and 10 inches tall with a Highlands County EMS sticker on the front. The rough texture of the floor left no shoe impressions and there was no sign of forced entry, reports said. The two men told Troutman they had already washed the outside of the ambulance before noticing the theft, so there were no fingerprints and no footprints left outside the vehicle. They told the officer that the missing case contained Intubation equipment, an EZ I. Thompson said most of the drugs were designed for cardiac, seizure and diabetic patients with the exception of some over the counter medicines, such as Diphenhydramine and aspirin. Many of the contents were catalogued by looking at the contents of the team's spare drug box, reports said. Police looked nearby, including in Dumpsters, but didn't find anything, reports said. Officers also did not learn anything from residents living near the EMS station, who either didn't hear anything happening or weren't available when officers visited them. Fansler, thankful for the tip that led to Clark, said people who want to give crime tips to Lake Placid police can contact them through a new email account at lppd. He also invites people to like the Lake Placid Police Facebook page at www.
