In this model, parts already built are shown in brown. Base of the Christ Tower under construction. Chief architect Jordi Fauli announced in October that construction is 70 percent complete and has entered its final phase of raising six immense towers. Current technology allows stone to be shaped off-site by a CNC milling machine, whereas in the 20th century the stone was carved by hand. Consecration[ edit ] The main nave was covered and an organ installed in mid, allowing the still-unfinished building to be used for religious services. Occasionally, Mass is celebrated at other times, where attendance requires an invitation. In addition, visitors may pray in the chapel of the Blessed Sacrament and Penitence. The lower spires are surmounted by communion hosts with sheaves of wheat and chalices with bunches of grapes, representing the Eucharist. The construction began in , and the towers, built over the elliptical plan, were finished in . It is especially striking for its spare, gaunt, tormented characters, including emaciated figures of Christ being scourged at the pillar; and Christ on the Cross. These controversial designs are the work of Josep Maria Subirachs. It will also depict various scenes such as Hell, Purgatory, and will include elements such as the Seven deadly sins and the Seven heavenly virtues. Dedicated to the birth of Jesus, it is decorated with scenes reminiscent of elements of life. For instance, the three porticos are separated by two large columns, and at the base of each lies a turtle or a tortoise one to represent the land and the other the sea; each are symbols of time as something set in stone and unchangeable. It is divided into three porticos, each of which represents a theological virtue: Hope, Faith and Charity. The Tree of Life rises above the door of Jesus in the portico of Charity. He wanted every statue and figure to be painted. In this way the figures of humans would appear as much alive as the figures of plants and animals. He was well aware that he would not finish the church and that he would need to set an artistic and architectural example for others to follow. They aimed to give a rigid, angular form to provoke a dramatic effect. Above there is a pyramidal pediment , made up of eighteen bone-shaped columns, which culminate in a large cross with a crown of thorns. In the third and final level the Death, Burial and the Resurrection of Christ can be seen. A bronze figure situated on a bridge creating a link between the towers of Saint Bartholomew and Saint Thomas represents the Ascension of Jesus. Ground model, showing Carrer de Mallorca running underground. Dedicated to the Celestial Glory of Jesus, it represents the road to God: On other projects Carrer de Mallorca will have to go underground. Purgatory and death will also be depicted, the latter using tombs along the ground. The portico will have seven large columns dedicated to spiritual gifts. For definitions of the architectural terms, see Cathedral floorplan. The central nave vaults reach forty-five metres (148 feet) while the side nave vaults reach thirty metres (98 feet). The transept has three aisles. The columns are on a 7. The crossing rests on the four central columns of porphyry supporting a great hyperboloid surrounded by two rings of twelve hyperboloids currently under construction. The central vault reaches sixty metres (197 feet). The apse is capped by a hyperboloid vault reaching seventy-five metres (246 feet). There are gaps in the floor of the apse, providing a view down into the crypt below. Besides branching to support their load, their ever-changing surfaces are the result of the intersection of various geometric forms. The simplest example is that of a square base evolving into an octagon as the column rises, then a sixteen-sided form, and eventually to a circle. This effect is the result of a three-dimensional intersection of helicoidal columns: for example a square cross-section column twisting clockwise and a similar one twisting counter-clockwise. Essentially none of the interior surfaces are flat; the ornamentation is comprehensive and rich, consisting in large part of abstract shapes which combine smooth curves and jagged points. Even detail-level work such as the iron railings for balconies and stairways are full of curvaceous elaboration. Organ[ edit ] In an organ was installed in the chancel by the Blancafort Orgueners de Montserrat organ builders. The instrument has 26 stops, 1, pipes on two manuals and a pedalboard. These instruments will be

It is known that two cousins originally from the Mexican state of Guanajuato run it, but no photos or names have been obtained by authorities. This shows how trafficking groups are becoming more cunning in hiding from federal authorities. The federal authorities have known that the group smuggles high grade marijuana and cocaine from Guanajuato, traveling up to the border and passing under secret tunnels. DEA agents have received tips saying the groups move up to 2 tons of high grade marijuana to a central hub in Atlanta, then up through I75 to Detroit where it is repackaged into small quantities and spread throughout the city. The money is never tracked because no bank accounts are used. This group is known to have military style weapons obtained from their cartel connections in the United States and Mexico.
