

Chapter 1 : 5-Minute Devotionals - Sarah E. Frazer

This five-minute-a-day devotional will inspire and encourage all of us who struggle with too many commitments and too little quiet time. For each workday of the week, all 52 weeks of the year, you will find spiritual and emotional refreshment in these beautifully written meditations.

This is a five minute devotion on the Mercy of God In Matthew there is a story of a woman who threw herself on the mercy of God Matthew My daughter is severely demon-possessed. For the Lord your god is a merciful God. We do not make requests of you because we are righteous, but because of your great mercy. The meaning of mercy. The principal Hebrew word for mercy speaks of an emotional response to the needs of others. In fact, people in Bible times believed that the seat of emotions was found in the intestinal area. Notice that this churning led Him to do something about it. He saw the need and then He went into action. Mercy in theory is absolutely meaningless. Mercy must move us. In addition, the emphasis in this beatitude is on those who are inclined to show mercy as a lifestyle, not those who are merciful on an occasional basis. Please let me fall into the hand of the Lord, for His mercies are very great; but do not let me fall into the hand of man. And many times you delivered them because of your wonderful mercy. Hear me, O Lord, for Your lovingkindness is good; Turn to me according to the multitude of Your tender mercies. Through the tender mercy of our God. But God who is rich with mercy. It is by his great mercy that we have been born again, because God raised Jesus Christ from the dead. Now we live with great expectation, We are saved because God is merciful. He washed away our sins, giving us a new birth and new life through the Holy Spirit. Blind Bartimaeus â€” 30 Two blind men were sitting beside the road. Instantly they could see! Then they followed him. He has seizures and suffers terribly. He often falls into the fire or into the water. For my daughter has a demon in her and is severely tormented. It caused the body to deteriorate from the outside in. The word leper literally means one who is stricken, which reflected the belief that the disease was a divine judgement. Their life was a lonely, bitter exile from all human contact with their families or friends. These 10 men may have lived together in their misery, but somehow they heard that Jesus was passing by and they probably had heard that He could cure lepers. So when He enters the village they break the rules and go and meet with him Luke This man was a Samaritan. Where are the other nine? Your faith has healed you. One man was transformed. Once they got what they wanted from Jesus, they were finished with him. As we have come under the benefit of the mercy of God â€” we must be transformed into people of mercy. Are we benefiting from that mercy or are we transformed by the mercy of God? Where we begin to be moved with compassion and mercy for those who are lost in the world. Creating a Community of Compassion: The message of the Bible is clear â€” if we say that we follow the Almighty, we must emulate Him. Here are six ways that God wants us to be community of compassion. Just as we get dressed each day, so too, Colossians 3: In 2 Corinthians 4: In a very strong passage, James 2: Mercy triumphs over judgment! I love the concept that a trail of goodness and mercy will follow us.

Chapter 2 : Devotions | Right From The Heart Ministries

Introducing the JellyTelly 5 Minute Family Devotional! Finally, an easy-to-use video devotional that helps your family learn about Jesus together from the te.

How can you say something brief, meaningful yet powerful? This is a skill that seasoned youth workers have finely tuned. Let me share 10 simple steps from Ken Davis best selling author of How to Speak to Youth and keep them awake at the same time that will take your talks from okay to exceptional! Begin by examining yourself. What can you speak about with integrity? What has the Lord taught you in the last 6 months? What are some of the key truths that you live by from day to day? What Scriptures verses are special to you? Have you experienced a certain Biblical truth in a new way recently? Now examine the group. What would a group of students be interested in hearing? What questions would they want answered? What issues are they grappling with spiritually, emotionally, socially, physically? What concerns would a typical group of students their age be facing? What specific issues would teens relate to? Do you have adequate information about the subject? What does the Bible say? Which verse is the one that you would like to use in the message? Is this the best verse or story? Is there a better one? Is this the exact aspect of the subject that you wanted to speak about? Does another verse deal with it better? In other words€ what do you want to say about what you want to say! This is directly related to the key word from your objective. Sounds simple but this is where a lot of talks fall apart. Construct your devotional around these points i. Your points and reasoning must be straightforward, without extensive arguments, proofs and sub points. The devotional is a black and white photo until you supply the color, animation, and sound effects. Short, sharp images, word pictures, and concise stories that your audience will enjoy and relate to help get your point across. The format in five minutes or fifty seldom changes. You must Introduce your objective. Deliver the body of your message, and Have a clear, compelling conclusion. Within the body of the message you should have explanation, illustration, and application of each point. No small task when it must be said in only 5 minutes. Write a word-for-word transcript then reduce it to notes. You must commit your words to paper. Tailor it for the group. Short punchy sentences are normally better than long complicated ones. Avoid slang, but also avoid sounding like a theology text book. As you write, imagine yourself in front of the group. Read each line out loud after it is written. How would the group react? Be as natural as possible. Imagine that you are counseling a friend or trying to persuade someone of your opinion. Check the timing that it is only 5 minutes. No more, no less. At the time of delivery concentrate on the message you are about to share. Make direct eye contact with every person in the room many times in the five minutes. Trust God that his word is effective. Leave the results to Him. Get feedback later and improve each time that you speak. He has been involved in youth ministry for over 30 years. He continues to volunteer, write, teach, and speak to parents, leaders and teens. If you would like to contact him you can email ron.
