

Chapter 1 : French in Action: Books | eBay

Capretz has a complete course for studying French, including on line video (its free; just go to racedaydvl.com), mp3 audio, workbook, and textbook. The latter three have to be purchased. All the parts work well together, and you can repeat each leçon as many times as you wish.

French in Action Language Learning Curriculum: A Review written by: It is easy to use in self-directed learning, has elements that are online and will provide hours of language learning fun! The program includes a textbook, a workbook, and video and audio components the video and audio are accessible for free online. First produced in , is published by the Yale University Press and is truly an excellent language learning resource. I will outline each element of the curriculum here. These tools can be used separately or, for best learning, in conjunction with one another. Depending how much of the material you choose to use, you will spend a small sum of money or you may spend nothing! The video series tells the story of a young university student named Mireille, her life, friendships and romance. The videos are completely in French, but they begin very slowly and they repeat concepts and phrases over and over. I recommend watching each episode a couple of times, until you start to grasp what the lessons are about. A professor makes regular appearances throughout the video series, guiding learners through new vocabulary and grammar structures. Since these videos can be watched completely free and can be accessed online, they are an excellent resource. The language and Parisian French cultural information you can glean from this video series is truly phenomenal, and the story line is also quite engaging. Be sure to look for the Second Edition and be sure to buy both Part 1 and Part 2 – there are two textbooks to make the size manageable. The textbook includes several helpful elements. Each chapter of the text corresponds to one half-hour video, and contains the entire written transcript of the video! Needless to say, this is invaluable in being able to match the sound of the French language with the written form of the language. In addition, each chapter contains many pictures black and white and a handful of exercises. It is helpful to have the text as a supplement to the videos. For each video and corresponding chapter of the textbook, the workbook offers dozens and dozens of short exercises that will help to improve all your language skills – speaking, reading, listening and writing. Many of the exercises are to be used in conjunction with audio files. You can buy the audio files, but they are very expensive. I recommend streaming them online; however, to do this, you can only access the files one at a time. This is not difficult to do, once you get the hang of how to change the numbers in the web address to get to the next file. Say, for example, that you want to do exercise 3. You would go to the following web address: However, even if you choose just to watch the half-hour video segments, you will begin to improve your French language skills, I highly recommend this excellent French language learning series:
