

Kapalkundala (Bengali: কপালকুন্দলা), also known as Mrinmoyee, is a Bengali romance novel by Indian writer Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay.

Mahasweta Devi Michael Madhusudan Dutt Born in Jessore now in Bangladesh wrote in English as well as Bengali. He invented a metre called Amirtakshar Chhande blank verse and created a Bengali language of his own, borrowing difficult and unknown words from Sanskrit. In his life Dutt wrote many revolutionary poems, dramas and prose works. His long poem The Captive Lady, written in English is a masterpiece. All his life, Dutt read the European classics and travelled almost the whole of Europe. Krishnakumari, Vrajangana, and Virangana are his other poems. He died a pauper. Bankimchandra, the finest product of the 19th century renaissance is regarded as the pioneer of the novel in Bengal. It was written in English and was probably a translation of the novelette submitted for the prize. Durgeshnandini, his first Bengali romance, was published in 1869. The next novel Kapalkundala is one of the best romances written by Chatterjee. Bankim Chatterjee was superb story-teller, and a master of romance. He was a path finder and a path maker. Chatterjee represented the English-educated Bengalee with a tolerably peaceful home life, sufficient wherewithal and some prestige, as the bearer of the torch of western enlightenment. No Bengali writer before or since has enjoyed such spontaneous and universal popularity as Chatterjee. His novels have been translated in almost all the major languages of India, and have helped to simulate literary impulses in those languages. Gurudev Rabindranath Tagore, mystic, philosopher, musician, painter and Nobel laureate for literature is among the leading personalities of Modern India. He was awarded the Nobel prize in Literature for his collection of well known poems Gitanjali. Chokher Bali Eyesore, is one among the great social novels he wrote. His other notable works include Sonartari, Kalpna and Chitra. In 1901, Tagore established Shantiniketan, near Bolpur, Bengal an institution blending Indian and Western methods of education. Between 1910 and 1941, Tagore published 21 collections of songs and poems and held lecture tours across Europe, the Americas, China, Japan, Malaya, Indonesia etc. He is remembered for his literary genius. Crescent Moon is his famous book of poems. Gora is one of his best novels. His book Sadhana is known for its philosophical significance. Bengali novel originated from Bankimchandra, Tagore modernised it and Saratchandra set the trends of realism and protest in it. To name some important works: Srikanta in four parts ,, , Charitrahin Character-less, , Biraj Bau , Palli Samaj , the first part of Devdasa his first novel and his first published short story Mandir Grihadaha Home Burnt, Bibhuti Bhushan Bandyopadhyay An inimitable lyricist in prose, Bibhuti Bushan extended the perceptive world of Bengali fiction by his single contribution to the appreciation of the beauty of rural Bengal. Aparajita, a sequel to Pather Panchali is another of his great novel Some of the stories that Bibhuti had written earlier show him at his best. Among these may be mentioned Umarani first published in 1913 and Pui-mancha The Kitchen Garden Scaffolding; first published 1914. These and his later short stories are collected in more than a dozen volumes, such as Meghmallar , Mauriphul , Jatra Badal , etc. Tarasankar remains the best chronicler in Bengal so far as the decline and decay of the feudal fabric is concerned. One of the major novelists of the post-Tagore period, Banaphul is famed for his two novels Sthavar Stationary and Jangam Moving based on the history of the human civilisation. Ratri Night and Dana are his poetis novels. The thematic vein of his novels, on individual planes, is the travails of men of integrity within a value empty milieu. One of the pioneers of Post-Second World War Bengali fiction, Samaresh Babu wrote 87 novels, short stories and 20 travel-based novels. Ganga is one of his well-known novels Badal Sarkar An engineer by profession, Badal Sarkar earned fame mainly as a playwright introducing new forms of theatre movement. Both these plays belong to the Theatre of the Absurd. Considered one of the boldest of Bengali female writers since late 19th c, Mahasweta Devi wrote novels and short stories based on historical subjects as also on topics of social and political relevance. She has brought out the rebellious spirit of the tortured people of the past and the present with a rare blend of fact and fiction. Aranyer Adhikar Rights over Forest is one of her great novels. She is also a crusader for the rights of the tribals. She was given the Jnanpith award in 1974 for her contribution to Indian literature.

Chapter 2 : Seasons India :: Literature in Bengali Language - Writers

Kapalkundala By Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay is a popular Bengali Book and Romantic Novel which is written by Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay. Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay is famous Indian novelist, Poet, Journalist and composer of India's National Song.

About evil sages and cunning second women, courageous men and pious women. The basic premise of these stories was that people are either good or evil, how evil people scheme, lie and plot to fool and take advantage of good people. A good person is generally innocent and easily fooled by evil person who is also shrewd. There is always a moral to each story and men are always supposed to be courageous and self-respecting and women are supposed to be pious, obedient and honourable. That is the basic pretext of Kapalkundalika, so read it like you would read an ancient story or scripture with a moral lesson. Every thing has a reason and the writer does not leave the reader to imagine or flow with it but ensures that you stick with his opinions and intentions. The characters are either black or white and no greys, good or evil, no confusions so it leaves you no option but to accept them as they are and not develop any likes or dislikes. The story though translated in English reminds you of its original writing in Indian local language because of its writing style and dialogues. Infact the narration at various places reminded me of Chandrakanta by Devkinandan Khatri in Hindi which was also written during the same time. So clearly the translation maintains the original style and expressions. Finally why I read this book. Along with exploring the world of fiction, a book is a source of exploring the life of the author. His thoughts, his values, his opinions, his philosophy. And the books by Bankim Chandra are a great source of information on this Bengali writer who is also the composer of our national song Vande Matram. I never really felt that I knew them. This book suffers for the Romanticism of its time. All the tragic action of the book could have been avoided if any of the characters had just smartened up for a minute. I would still recommend it to people interested in learning more about old Bengali life and literature. It was an enjoyable, quick and easy read. This is a very readable and charming translation.

By Sarathi Guha 03 Apr While returning from pilgrimage a group of seat voyagers were waiting or high tide keeping their boat on the river bank. Nabakumar want to the jungle to find some wood. But before his return the high tide came and for the cooking other voyagers leave the place with the boat. After returning Nabakumar not finding the boat again went inside the jungle to find some shelter and he found a heritage of a Kali worshipper. That Kali worshipper brought Nabakumar in a thatched house and told him to wait. Nabakumar was very tired and fell asleep. Next morning while roaming in the jungle Nabakumar immediately because the Kali worshipper was getting ready for a human sacrifice. But before he leaves the Kali worshipper came and facially brought Nabakumar to the sacrifice-ground. But Kapalkundala upset the ploy. Kapalkundala fled from the place with Nabakumar. Adhikari asked Nabakumar whether he was married. Nabakumar said that he was married but as her father-in-law changed his religion to Islam he had moved action with his wife. Hearing his Adhikari arranged a marriage between Kapalkundala and Nabakumar. Nabakumar was then ready to return to Saptagram. But on his way back he met an injured woman. She was looted by dacoits. Nabakumar reached her to a safe place. While discussing Nabakumar found that this woman was in first wife Padmabati, now Motibibi. Motibibi also identified her husband. As Kapalkundala was experienced in house hold works Nabakumar misunderstood her, he thought Kapalkundala did not love her. Motibibi met Nabakumar and expressed her love but he refused her. That Kali worshiper came to Saptagram to revenge on Kapalkundala. The Kali-worshipper wanted to kill Kapalkundala but Motibibi did not want that, she wanted only a separation of Kapalkundala from Nabakumar. That Kali worshipper showed Nabakumar Kapalkundala met a man in jungle from a distance. Nabakumar thought it was the man whom actually Kapalkundala loved. Nabakumar forced Kapalkundala to come to the sacrifice ground. Kali-worshipper told Kapalkundala to go to the river to bathe before sacrifice. Nabakumar followed her, and after discussing with Kapalkundala he realised he had done a wrong. Nabakumar also dived in the river to save her. But neither of them was saved.

Pinaki Bhushan Mukherjee Story: Kapal Kundala has been made several times in Bengali Film history. This is a famous story written by Bankimchandra Chatterjee. First time, it was made in , even before our independence. It was directed by Priyanath Ganguly. The leading actors were: In that really old period, there were a tradition of making films on Hindu Gods and Goddesses. The famous director in early Bengali film history made more than 15 very successful Films including: Second time, the Kapal Kundala was made in by Premankur Atorthy. Premankur Atorthy was born in in British India and also one of the famous bengali directors who produced many Black and White Bengali film in pre-independence period and some in post independence too. He was a actor himself and a writer too. He directed many Hindi movies too and our charming Pahadi Sanyal actually also done many Hindi movies this time and some under his direction. The third Kapal Kundala released after a decade from the first Kapal Kundala in This time the movie was directed by both Nitin Bose and Phani Majumdar. Leela Desai played the role for Kapal Kundala. Nutin Bose was multi Talented person. He was a writer, director, cinematographer, cameraman and more. He directed more than 35 Bengali and Hindi Films in his life. Well he was the cousin of famous Satyajit Roy too. The Fourth Kapal Kundala was released in This time directed by Ardhendu Banerjee. Ardhendu Banerjee was an actor himself and well known for his role in film Tansen He has directed many movies in early independence period of Bengali and Hindi cinema. He is probably slightly more known to you all as he directed some nice movies with Uttam Kumar. The Kapal Kundala you are going to watch is the last one. Pikani Mukherjee dedicated the film to Uttam Kumar too. He thought Bankimchandra was more than a person! Kaji Nazrul Islam was one of the lyricist in this famous film along with very popular Pulak Mjukherjee. We have awesome playback singers in this movie too such as Manna Dey, Hemanta, Pratima, Arati and more. Ranjit Mullick was too good in this movie as well as Sumitra and Mohua. A great family movie with to watch. You can tell by the no. We will wait for the 6th release in Kapal Kundala soon with Prosenjit and Mithunda in it and Rituparna as our lovely Kapalkundala we wish. Moments from The Bengali Movie Baghini: As usual, Mahua did excellent job in playing the famous character Kapalkundala and is remembered for her great acting in the movie. I would be happy if correction is made in this regard, of course if I am not wrong. Because, I feel that wrong information sometimes disregard a very very popular and highly talented actress like Mahua Roy Chowdhury..
