

Chapter 1 : Tonus Peregrinus: Litany of Our Lady of Sorrows [Anglican Patrimony]

Litany of Our Lady of Seven Sorrows. by Pope Pius VII. V. Lord, have mercy on us. R. Christ, have mercy on us. V. Lord, have mercy on us. Christ, hear us.

The Saint was the Cardinal Archbishop of Milan and he was responsible for investigating reported miracles, one of which, this one mentioned, turned out to be true: The miracle involved a portrait of the Sorrowful Mother depicted in a seated position, with the Crucified Body of Our Lord reclining on her lap [like many "Pieta" images]. This particular portrait was already thought of as miraculous when St. Charles visited and prayed before it in the year , some years earlier. Now, he assigned a group to investigate, and this is what they ascertained as fact: Two farmers had stopped in the church at Rho on April 24, to pray before the ancient image known as Our Lady of Sorrows. They had often stopped in and were very familiar with the image. On this day they were stunned to see that the eyes of the Madonna were swollen as though the image had been crying. Thinking that they had made a mistake, they went closer to the portrait. At that moment tears of blood began pouring from her eyes. They were overwhelmed and much anguished that our Lady was so sorrowful, but they went to tell others to come and see the miracle. Someone suspected that the blood might be peeling paint, so a handkerchief was used to catch the tears of blood. Later it was obvious that the stain was made by blood and not paint. It is not known how long the tears of blood lasted, but soon the little church was crowded with excited parishioners who were witnesses to the event and the news spread to Milan and surrounding villages, and to the Archbishop, St. He placed Carlo Bascapè in charge of the episcopal investigation. A notary took depositions from 40 witnesses; the results were sent to the Holy See. The miracle of Our Lady of Sorrows was declared authentic and St. Charles promised his parishioners that he would build a basilica to honor Our Lady as Our Lady of Sorrows or the Griever as the local people called her. He died after the cornerstone had been laid. Today the basilica is decorated with splendid carvings and priceless paintings. There are several large chapels, one of which is dedicated to St. The custodians of this magnificent church are the Oblate Missionaries of Rho, known as the Missionaries of the Griever. Their founder was the Rev. In the sacristy of the basilica is a tabernacle-like safe in which is kept a large silver reliquary in which is visible behind a crystal oval, the linen handkerchief stained with the bloody tears of the Madonna. The miraculous portrait we do not have a good photo, which we someday hope to have has the place of honor in the basilica. The yearly anniversary on April 24 is celebrated with impressive ceremonies, while the Feast Day of the Sorrowful Mother, which is September 15, is commemorated more solemnly. The first known outpouring of honoring Mary as a Sorrowful Mother go back at least as early two or more centuries before St. Charles Borromeo and the devotion has its roots in Scripture. Both the Dominican and Franciscan Orders were instrumentally in spreading this devotion, along with the Servites. Various mystics and Saints have indicated as much. We are devoted to all the images of our Lady of Sorrows and have chosen what we think is a fair representation of the range of images possible for display. We tried not to have too much duplication from last year and chose less color and more sepia in some of the sections. The devotion to Our Sorrowful Lady is growing in modern times, almost unprecedented, but of course it is very precedented because it is in accord with the Will of God. Our Mother is very much grieving, as Our Lady of Fatima. Could it be any different in this time of worldwide apostasy and open rebellion against the rights of God and the respect and honor due His holy Mother? Paul Books and Media.

Et baiulans sibi crucem exivit in eum qui dicitur Calvariae locum hebraice Golgotha. Then therefore he delivered him to them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him forth. And bearing his own cross, he went forth to that place which is called Calvary, but in Hebrew Golgotha. Ave Mariaâ€¦ Et cum ducerent eum adprehenderunt Simonem quendam Cyrenensem venientem de villa; et inposuerunt illi crucem portare post Iesum. And as they led him away, they laid hold of one Simon of Cyrene, coming from the country; and they laid the cross on him to carry after Jesus. Ave Sequebatur autem illum multa turba populi et mulierum quae plangebant et lamentabant eum. And there followed him a great multitude of people, and of women, who bewailed and lamented him. Ave Mariaâ€¦ Conversus autem ad illas Iesus dixit: Filiae Hierusalem, nolite flere super me; sed super vos ipsas flete, et super filios vestros. But Jesus turning to them, said: Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not over me; but weep for yourselves, and for your children. Ave Mariaâ€¦ Quoniam ecce venient dies in quibus dicent: Beatae steriles et ventres qui non genuerunt, et ubera quae non lactaverunt. For behold, the days shall come, wherein they will say: Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that have not borne, and the paps that have not given suck. Ave Tunc incipient dicere montibus: Cadite super nos; et collibus: Then shall they begin to say to the mountains: Fall upon us; and to the hills: Ave Mariaâ€¦ A si in viridi ligno haec faciunt in arido quid fiet? For if in the green wood they do these things, what shall be done in the dry? Mater cruci corde affixa, R.
