

Chapter 1 : Money Origami Rose | LoveToKnow

Use money origami (dollar bill origami) to transform your dollar bills into clothing, hearts, flowers, and more. Folding money is a quick and easy way to make a gift.

Five or more bills of any denomination
Piece of crafting wire for the stem
Skewer or plastic flower stem optional
Floral tape optional
Needle nose pliers optional

Instructions

Start with crisp bills. You can get new ones or use an iron to flatten out ones you already have. The newer the better! You can use any denomination, or a mix.

Step 1 Place one bill face down on a flat surface. Crease it gently across the middle and unfold again. This will help you form the cup shape in later steps.

Step 2 Tightly roll each corner in towards the center of the back side at about a degree angle. Use the skewer or a toothpick if desired to get the rolls nice and tight.

Step 3 Repeat step 2 for the remaining four bills.

Step 4 Hold one bill with the corners curled inward, and pinch horizontally across the middle. Do not crease the whole length of the bill, but just squeeze the middle.

Step 5 Carefully but very firmly, start gathering in the sides like an accordion. The folds do not need to be precise, but make them as compact as possible.

Step 6 Repeat on the other side so that you wind up with a bow tie shape as you pinch in the middle. Flatten the center as much as possible, but try to keep the integrity of cup shape.

Step 7 Cut a length of floral wire about 8 inches long and fold in half. Place over the accordion fold, with the U-bend over the inside of the accordion.

Front View

Step 8: Rear View Give the wire a degree twist like you would on a package with twine, making sure it is very tight against the accordion fold. Use needle nose pliers to flatten for extra security.

Step 9 Hold upright and gently form the ends around each other. This will form the bud of the rose.

Step 10 Set bud aside. Repeat steps 5 through 7 with a new bill, but this time make sure the rolls are facing OUT.

Step 11 Pick up your bud and flip it over to expose the floral wire. Place the center of the new petals perpendicular over the twist you made in step 9, making sure the ends of the wire are free.

Step 12 Cross the wire over the new petal and twist the wire degrees again, as in step 9.

Step 13 Arrange the petals around the center so that they somewhat envelop the bud. Repeat steps 11 through 13 with your remaining bills, angling each layer so that they look more naturally staggered around the rose. Adjust the petals of the bud to make it look attractive.

Step 15 If you wish, you can then attach the wire to a skewer, floral stake or fake flower stem.

Step 16 Step back and admire your lovely rose!

Tips for Success Keep the following tips in mind to make your rose turn out perfectly: Choose a piece of paper money that is clean and crisp. If you want really crisp money, ask for new dollar bills from the bank. If you want a specific side of the bill to show on the outside of your rosebud, place that side face down as you begin the project. Use a toothpick to give your rolled edges a little more form. If you find that rolling around the toothpick is too hard, try something larger like a pen or pencil. Wash your hands and work surface before you begin. Alternatively, you can remove the plastic and wire stem from a fabric rose pick and insert it the same way you would the wire. This will give the rose some extra greenery around the base of the flower and some leaves on the stem itself.

Giving Your Rose as a Gift In Japan, people often give gifts of money in the form of folded paper objects. This tradition makes cash gifts a little more personal, and it also provides the opportunity to express a sentiment through the symbolism of the paper shape. In any culture, a rose is a powerful symbol representing love, compassion, and remembrance. Was this page useful?

Fold the top two corners to the center crease, as if you were making a paper plane. Use a pencil and ruler to sketch in the shape of a necktie onto the triangular flap. You can make the tie as wide or skinny as you like, so long as the lines you draw meet in a point at the top edge of the paper. Unfold the triangular flap, so that the paper looks like the left panel below. Then make creases along each of the pencil lines you drew in step 3. Fold the triangular flap back down, so that the paper looks like the left panel below. Now fold the necktie in half top right panel. This will make the top left edge of the paper lift up see middle right panel , so squash that top left edge flat again, making a new crease in the process see bottom right panel. Open out the necktie again by folding along the crease shown below. Repeat steps 5 and 6 on the other side. The paper should now look like this. You can see the necktie already! Fold the left and right hand edges in to meet the center line. On the left hand side, undo the fold you made in step 8. Repeat step 9 on the right hand side. Turn over the paper. Fold the bottom two corners in at an angle to meet the center line. See how it looks like a shirt collar, but upside down? Turn over the paper, so that the necktie is on the top again. Fold up the bottom so that the collar almost reaches the necktie. Undo the fold from step Then redo it, but this time pull the two flaps shown outward. See how they stick out to the side? Fold up the collar, so that it just peaks over the top of the shirt. Hook the collar over the front of the shirt, and it should look like this: How did your money origami shirt and tie turn out?
