But did they get everything wrong? Perhaps they got a few things right. First, they came to him when he was suffering. Second, they empathized with him: Third, they spent time with him. Verse 13 states they were with him for seven days before they offered their advice. They commiserated with their friend in silence. But their silence did not last forever, and these three men gave a series of speeches to Job, recorded in chapters 4-6. Their overarching belief was that Job was suffering because he had done something wrong. As a result, they repeatedly encourage Job to admit his wrong and repent so that God would bless him again. God clearly condemned their advice: For this reason, we should always be careful about how we interpret individual verses from Job. It is unwise to pull an isolated verse from the book of Job and use it to understand God if the verse comes from a speech of Eliphaz, Bildad, or Zophar, then we have no guarantee that it accurately reflects the character of God. As with any single verse, we must look at the context. Though, in the end, Job erred in overstating his righteousness Job The trials Job endured were not related to his behavior. Much can be learned from the example of Job and his friends. When we are aware of a friend who is hurting, we can follow the positive example of these men by going to the person, mourning with him, and spending time together. Our physical presence with a hurting friend can be a great comfort in and of itself, even if we have no words to say. Instead of telling a hurting person to admit his wrong and repent when we do not know the reason for the suffering, we can join together and encourage a friend to endure faithfully, knowing God sees our pain and has a purpose for it. When we turn our focus to God, we can offer great encouragement and hope to those in need, helping those who suffer to see God at work. This is a great application of Romans Our help to those in need is ultimately a way we serve Christ Matthew

Friends season 1 The first season introduces the six main characters: Ross, who has had a crush on Rachel since the two of them were in high school, constantly attempts to tell her how he feels about her. However, many obstacles stand in his way, such as the fact that he is expecting a baby with his lesbian ex-wife, Carol. Joey is shown to be a bachelor and struggling actor, while Phoebe works as a masseuse and portrays a slightly "crazy" attribute to her personality based on her troubles as a child after her mother committed suicide. However, the rest of the group loves her regardless. Chandler breaks up with his girlfriend, Janice Maggie Wheeler , who frequently returns in later seasons. Carol delivers a baby boy who is named Ben. At the end of the season, Chandler accidentally reveals that Ross loves Rachel, who realizes that she feels the same way.

Season 2 Main article: Friends season 2 The second season begins with Rachel waiting at the gate for Ross to declare her love for him. However, she discovers that he is dating Julie Lauren Tom , someone he knew from graduate school. Chandler gets back with Janice, his ex-girlfriend from season one.

Season 3 Main article: Friends season 3 Season three takes on a significantly greater serialized format. Rachel decides to take a break from their relationship; and Ross, hurt and drunk sleeps with Chloe, "the hot girl from the Xerox place", causing Rachel to break up with him. After believing she has no family except her twin sister Ursula Lisa Kudrow , Phoebe becomes acquainted with her half-brother Giovanni Ribisi and birth mother Teri Garr. Joey develops a relationship with his acting partner Kate Dina Meyer , and Monica begins a relationship with millionaire Pete Becker Jon Favreau which ends because of the disagreements between the two.

Season 4 Main article: Friends season 4 In the fourth-season premiere, Ross and Rachel briefly reconcile after Ross pretends to read a long letter that Rachel wrote for him, but continues to insist that the two were on a break so they break up again. Joey dates Kathy Paget Brewster , a girl that Chandler has a crush on. Kathy and Chandler later kiss, which causes drama between Chandler and Joey. Joey forgives Chandler only after he spends a day in a box as punishment. Phoebe becomes a surrogate mother for her brother and his wife Alice Debra Jo Rupp. Monica and Rachel are forced to switch apartments with Joey and Chandler after losing a bet during a quiz game, but, manage to switch back by bribing them with Knicks season tickets and a one-minute kiss off-screen between the Rachel and Monica. Ross begins dating an English woman named Emily Helen Baxendale , and the season finale features their wedding in London.

Season 5 Main article: The season features Monica and Chandler trying to keep their new relationship a secret from their friends. She gives birth to a boy, Frank Jr. Emily states that the only condition in which she would remain married to Ross is if he stops all communication with Rachel. Ross agrees, but during a last dinner with all six main characters together, Emily phones Ross and, upon discovering Rachel is there, realizes she does not trust him, which ends the marriage. Phoebe begins a relationship with a police officer, Gary Michael Rapaport , after finding his badge and using it as her own. Monica and Chandler go public with their relationship, to the surprise and happiness of their friends. They decide to get married on a trip to Las Vegas, but, change their plans after witnessing Ross and Rachel drunkenly stumble out of the wedding chapel.

Season 6 Main article: Ross and Rachel try to get an annulment because he does not want to have three divorces. However, he realizes he could not do so and tries to keep their wedding a secret from Rachel. Nonetheless, they divorce several episodes later. Monica and Chandler move in together, causing Rachel to move in with Phoebe. Joey lands a role on a cable television series called Mac and C. The relationship ends because of their maturity differences. Chandler proposes to Monica, who says yes even though her ex-boyfriend Richard confesses his love for her.

Season 7 Main article: E is cancelled, but he is offered his job back on Days of Our Lives. Meanwhile, Ross tries to introduce Ben to Hanukkah with the help of an Armadillo costume.

Season 8 Main article: The two of them and Monica then rejoice in the bathroom. Rachel and Ross decide to have the baby but do not resume their romantic relationship. Joey develops romantic feelings for Rachel, but she does not reciprocate them. Rachel gives birth to baby Emma in the season finale. Ross does not intend to ask Rachel to marry him, but he takes the ring anyway and puts it in his jacket pocket. He kneels to pick it up and turns to Rachel, still on his knees and still holding the ring. Rachel accepts what she thinks is his proposal of marriage. Season 9 Main article: Friends season 9 Season nine begins with Ross and Rachel living together as roommates with their daughter Emma. Monica and Chandler try to conceive a baby of their own but find out that they are unable to, due to health restrictions. Rachel and Emma move in with Joey in the middle of the season, and Rachel develops infatuation towards him, while the rest of the "friends" try hard to get Ross and Rachel back together. The group travels to Barbados in the finale to hear Ross give a keynote speech at a palaeontology conference, where they stay at a hotel. Joey and his girlfriend Charlie Aisha Tyler break up, and she begins a relationship with Ross. Season 10 Main article: Friends season 10 The tenth season closes several long-running storylines. Charlie breaks up with Ross to get back together with her ex-boyfriend. Phoebe and Mike get married mid-season outside the Central Perk coffee house. Monica and Chandler apply to adopt a child and are chosen by Erica Anna Faris. Monica and Chandler prepare to move to the suburbs, and Joey becomes upset with the changes in his life. Rachel gets fired from her job and accepts a new offer in Paris. Ross tries to get her job back by secretly meeting her boss but eventually gives up after realizing that the Paris job is her dream job. Rachel says a tearful goodbye to everyone but Ross. A hurt and angry Ross confronts Rachel, and they end up sleeping together. Rachel leaves, and Ross, realizing he loves her, chases after her to the airport. Rachel realizes she loves him too, and cancels her flight to Paris, agreeing to stay with him. The finale dialogue used in this series is by Chandler, making a joke for the last time. Littlefield wanted the group to share memorable periods of their lives with friends, who had become "new, surrogate family members. When Kauffman, Crane and Bright pitched Insomnia Cafe, Littlefield was impressed that they knew who their characters were. Crane argued that it was not a series for one generation, and wanted to produce a series that everyone would enjoy watching. The Pilot Friends The producers wanted Courteney Cox pictured to portray Rachel, and Jennifer Aniston as Monica; However, Cox and Aniston disagreed, so Cox was cast as Monica and Aniston as Rachel Once it became apparent that the series was a favored project at NBC, Littlefield reported that he was getting calls from every agent in town, wanting their client to be a part of the series. Those who received a callback read again in front of Crane, Kauffman and Bright. At the end of March, the number of potential actors had been reduced to three or four for each part, and were asked to read for Les Moonves , then-president of Warner Bros. Although Crane and Kauffman did not want LeBlanc for the role at the time, they were told by the network to cast him. The writers found that they had to adjust the characters they had written to suit the actors, and the discovery process of the characters occurred throughout the first season. The networks and studios are looking for young people coming in out of college. Crane and Kauffman were forced to comply and wrote a draft of an early episode that featured "Pat the Cop. Crane found the storyline to be terrible, and Kauffman joked, "You know the kids [sic] book, Pat the Bunny? We had Pat the Cop. Kauffman and Crane would not have signed on for an eleventh season, even if all the cast members had wanted to continue. Episode titles officially begin with "The One Studios in Burbank, California. Bright felt that filming outside the studio made episodes less funny, even when shooting on the lot outside, and that the live audience was an integral part of the series. The fifth-season finale, set in Las Vegas, was filmed at Warner Bros. Studios, although Bright met people who thought it was filmed on location. The Last One Friends The cast became very emotional while filming the final episode. They liked the ones that stayed true to the series, citing the finale of The Mary Tyler Moore Show as the gold standard. Crane, Kauffman, and Bright had difficulty writing the finale. They did not want to do "something high concept, or take the show out of the show. The main cast enjoyed the finale and were confident that the fans would react similarly: A one-hour retrospective of clips from previous episodes was shown before to the airing of the episode. Expressed opinions varied between a signalling of the end of the sitcom genre, a small decline in the large history of the genre, [64] and a general reduction of scripted television in favor of reality shows. Ultimately, the two-hour package did exactly what it was supposed to do. It wrapped up the story while reminding us why we liked the show and will miss it. The Unofficial Guide to Friends thought that the cast was "trying just a little too hard", in particular, Perry and Schwimmer.

Chapter 3 : Friendship - Wikipedia

Our Daily Bread Daily Devotions The Old Testament characters Job and Daniel had much in common. Both went through serious trials and challenges. Both had great success because of the blessing.

Childhood Childhood friends The understanding of friendship in children tends to be more heavily focused on areas such as common activities, physical proximity, and shared expectations. They gain the ability to empathize with their friends, and enjoy playing in groups. They also experience peer rejection as they move through the middle childhood years. Establishing good friendships at a young age helps a child to be better acclimated in society later on in their life. Findings indicated that adolescents were less likely to engage in problem behavior when their friends did well in school, participated in school activities, avoided drinking, and had good mental health. The opposite was found regarding adolescents who did engage in problematic behavior. Whether adolescents were influenced by their friends to engage in problem behavior depended on how much they were exposed to those friends, and whether they and their friendship groups "fit in" at school.

Work friendships often take on a transactional feel; it is difficult to say where networking ends and real friendship begins. This satisfaction is associated with an increased ability to accomplish activities of daily living , as well as a reduced decline in cognitive abilities , decreased instances of hospitalization, and better outcomes related to rehabilitation. Research within the past four decades has now consistently found that older adults reporting the highest levels of happiness and general well being also report strong, close ties to numerous friends. Among the elderly, friendships can provide links to the larger community, serve as a protective factor against depression and loneliness, and compensate for potential losses in social support previously given by family members. Additionally, older adults in declining health who remain in contact with friends show improved psychological well-being. Children with autism have been found to be more likely to be close friends of one person, rather than having groups of friends. Additionally, they are more likely to be close friends of other children with some sort of a disability. Paraprofessionals, specifically one-on-one aides and classroom aides, are often placed with children with autism spectrum disorders in order to facilitate friendships and guide the child in making and maintaining substantial friendships. Such children are more at risk because they have as many of the rituals and lack of social skills as children with full autism, but they are more likely to be mainstreamed in school, since they are on the higher-functioning end of the autism spectrum. Children with autism have more difficulty attending to social cues , and so may not always recognize when they are being bullied. They experience a language delay causing them to have a harder time playing with other children. Most children with Down syndrome may prefer to watch other students and play alongside a friend but not with them, mostly because they understand more than they can outwardly express. In preschool years, children with Down syndrome can benefit from the classroom setting, surrounded by other children and less dependent on adult aid. Children with this disability benefit from a variety of interactions with both adults and children. At school, ensuring an inclusive environment in the classroom can be difficult, but proximity to close friends can be crucial for social development. Conversely, loneliness and a lack of social supports have been linked to an increased risk of heart disease , viral infections , and cancer , as well as higher mortality rates overall. Two researchers have even termed friendship networks a "behavioral vaccine " that boosts both physical and mental health. Most of the studies in this area are large prospective studies that follow people over time, and while there may be a correlation between the two variables friendship and health status , researchers still do not know if there is a cause and effect relationship, such as the notion that good friendships actually improve health. A number of theories have attempted to explain this link. However, no similar effect was observed for males. The disruption of friendships has been associated with increased guilt , anger and depression , and may be highly stressful events, especially in childhood. However, potential negative effects can be mitigated if the dissolution of a friendship is replaced with another close relationship. Although males and females tend to report comparative levels of satisfaction with their friendships. Ethology , Altruism in animals , and Sociobiology A man with a squirrel Friendship is also found among animals of higher intelligence, such as higher mammals and some birds. Cross-species friendships are common between humans and domestic animals. Cross-species friendships may also occur between two non-human animals, such as dogs and cats. Research by McLennan measured the heart rates of cattle, and showed that the cows were more stressed when alone or with an unfamiliar cow than they were with friends, lending support to the idea that cows are social animals, capable of forming close bonds with each other.

Chapter 4 : Quote by Michelle Obama: "We should always have three friends in our lives"

Fate gives all of us three teachers, three friends, three enemies, and three great loves in our lives. But these twelve are always disguised, and we can never know which one is which until we've loved them, left them, or fought them.

Chapter 5 : Friends - Wikipedia

Our physical presence with a hurting friend can be a great comfort in and of itself, even if we have no words to say. In addition, we can gain wisdom from what Job's friends did wrong. We should not assume that troubles are the sure sign of God's judgment (cf. John).

Chapter 9 : Happy Tree Friends - Wikipedia

"We should always have three friends in our lives-one who walks ahead who we look up to and follow; one who walks beside us, who is with us every step of our journey; and then, one who we reach back for and bring along after we've cleared the way."
