Chapter 1 : SF Mission Guide by the Mission Merchants Association

For some years past public attention has been frequently directed to the unsatisfactory accounting methods which have prevailed in many of the departments of the City and County government of San Francisco.

These annual awards are considered the Oscars of the food world. Delfina opened in November of Anne and Craig married in and had their daughter, Lucy Rose in Craig has garnered a loyal following for preparing delicious, soulful Italian food with a commitment to local, seasonal ingredients. The flavors are focused and the preparations are simple. Craig has also been quite active in recent years on behalf of the restaurant industry and small business as a spokesperson for small business in moderately successful attempts to temper City of San Francisco legislation regarding health insurance and sick leave that had a major financial impact on the labor intensive restaurant industry. The awards were handed out in a ceremony attended by more than 1, food and wine professionals. The James Beard Foundation, headquartered in New York, was named after the late teacher and cookbook author who championed American cuisine. The longest standing member in the history of the Mission Merchant Association recently passed away. Robert Kreuzber has served as president of Mission Merchants for three terms and on the Board of Directors for over 30 years. His membership check was always one of the first received each year. Bob is survived by his devoted wife Lois and many nieces, nephews and cousins. He was involved in the early planning and was an advisory board member for Bethany Center, a senior housing development at Capp and 21st Street. Bob was a member of St. For many years, on April 18th Bob produced the commemoration of the " Little Giant" hydrant which was the only functioning fire hydrant following the Earthquake and Fire. Francis Hook and Ladder Society. Legend has it that the hydrant, near Mission Dolores Park, miraculously delivered water when almost all others were useless, saving a large part of the city. Gas mains had broken all over the city during the quake. Escaping gas was one of the primary causes of fire, especially from people trying to cook on stoves. Running water had only recently come to Noe Valley. Mains had been installed around , and these broke along with the gas mains, forcing people to fall back on disused wells. Along Valencia Street from 21st to 17th, there was a hole big enough to bury at least 50 people, not to mention horses. The old Valencia Street Hotel, where I had played sliding over the banister, was lying flat on the ground and all the people in it had lost their lives, was the report. Valencia Street was an old creekbed, which had been filled in and then built on. The severe jolts of the quake caused the soft-packed fill to settle suddenly, leaving gaping holes in the street. The buildings on top of the fill reeled with the force of this settling, and houses for several blocks leaped off their foundations. The four-story Valencia Hotel collapsed like a tower of cards. Its top floor landed intact in the middle of the street with the bottom three floors flattened underneath, crushing at least 15 people. Hundreds of volunteers were determined to turn the fire back. The fire had at last been halted at 20th Street. Today the victory is marked by a repainting of the hydrant each year on April The race is considered a toss-up with no clear favorite. David Campos has been endorsed by the incumbent but both Mark Sanchez and Eric Quezada share similar resumes as strong progressive left advocates. Nunez who may be joined by others before the August cutoff.
