Congregations celebrate various rites and rituals as a way of commemorating the significant life events and experiences of their members. This book offers pastors and other church leaders a collection of ready-made, easily adaptable blessings and rituals for a variety of occasions. The book is divided into four major chapters: It includes blessings and rituals for such occasions as: Pastoral care rituals include such occasions as grief, lost love, anger, and declining health. Are there some things we can never think, or know, let alone do? The end of each century leads to a stocktaking of human achievement and our expectation about the future. This new book by John D. Barrow looks at what limits there might be to human discovery and what we might find, ultimately, to be unknowable, undoable, or unthinkable. Weaving together a tapestry of surprises, Barrow explores the frontiers of knowledge, taking in surrealism, impossible figures, time travel, paradoxes of logic and perspective, theological speculations about Beings for whom nothing is impossible -- all stimulate us to contemplate something more than what is. With sufficient time and money at our disposal, why should we find anything impossible? Barrow explores the limits that may be imposed upon a full understanding of the physical Universe by constraints of technology, cost, and complexity. And he delves into the deep limits imposed by the nature of knowledge itself, which have profound implications for any quest for complete knowledge. They take us into the debates over the problems of free will and consciousness. Clearly and engagingly written, and using simple explanations, this book reveals that impossibility is a deep and powerful notion: Impossibility is a two-edged sword: Barrow chronicles and explains the limits of science as a reality-generation mechanism and why it matters. But the journey is far more interesting - and important - than the destination.
