

Chapter 1 : SA's TOP 10 sporting events

Sports in Africa traces its origins far back in history, and the continent is now widely recognized globally for its excellence in various sporting fields. Africa has become a bedrock of vibrant sporting talent that cuts across various disciplines. Sports is widely respected across the continent.

South Africa was formally expelled from the IOC in 1970. When the IOC refused, the African teams withdrew from the games. Athletics[ edit ] In track and field athletics , a motion to suspend South Africa from the IAAF was defeated in 1970, [16] but had been passed by Cricket[ edit ] Cricket had been organised on racial lines in South Africa from its earliest days with the coloured cricketer Krom Hendricks excluded from provincial and national teams from the 1950s. The South African tour of England was called off and replaced by a "Rest of the World" tour featuring several South African players. Participants in the latter were banned by their national federations upon returning. South Africa competed in the 1972 edition in Bogota. The prospect of their appearing in the 1976 edition, due to be staged at Waterville in Ireland, caused it to be cancelled. South Africa did not reappear until the post-apartheid era in 1992. Outside golfers competed freely in South African Tour events. Various teams boycotted the Formula One race , some teams in this international motorsport boycotting as part of pressure from their own governments, as part of the mounting pressure against apartheid. This tour was highly controversial due to the difference of opinions. Though contacts were restricted after the Gleneagles Agreement in 1976, there were controversial tours in 1977 by the British Lions and by France , in 1978 by Ireland , and in 1979 by England. This proposal was rejected. While the SATTB team was able to participate in the world championships held in Stockholm in 1978, team members were immediately refused passports by the government. It ruled that no black could compete internationally except through the white sports body. It was reinstated in 1980 but placed in the Americas Zone instead of the Europe Zone where other African countries played. There were protests at its matches in the United States in 1980 and 1981. It hosted and won the 1985 edition in Johannesburg. William Hester , the president of the United States Tennis Association , decided to let a tournament between the United States and South Africa take place in Newport Beach, California in April in spite of backlash from African nations and protesters due to the apartheid regime. But we have entered the draw and, unfortunately, we have to play South Africa - and in the United States. Foreign eligibility[ edit ] Some elite South African sportspeople competed internationally for another country, after becoming eligible through naturalization , length of residency , or other criteria applicable by the relevant IF. Examples include runner Zola Budd , whose UK nationality application was fast-tracked in time for the Summer Olympics ; [28] and cricketer Kepler Wessels , who acquired Australian eligibility in the 1980s through residency, before returning to South Africa, for whom he played after the end of apartheid.

Frequently Asked Questions Things we look for in an online betting site There are a number of key aspects which combine to make the perfect online betting experience. Usability is absolutely key. Sites need to be slick and too much on-screen clutter is another huge negative which can hugely off-putting. We analyse how quickly users can navigate between different markets and competitions and whether placing an accumulator feels is a breeze or feels like a chore. Most online betting sites offer an incentive for new players to sign-up and here at BettingTop10, we will provide details of each and every bonus and how it favours the bettor. Some welcome offers are more generous than others and we help new players consider all of their options prior to making a decision. We also take a look at the variety of markets and whether it caters for the individual bettor. Does it have an extensive range of odds? Or does it heavily favour a certain type of player? Whilst most punters in South Africa will focus on the high-profile fixtures, sportsbooks must now offer a variety of options and follow current trends such as the recent rise of eSports and UFC. A variety of deposit options is another area that we tend to study closely as each and every player will have their own preference and even though most will only stick to a single method, it is handy to have the choice. We also detail deposit limits, fees and withdrawal times which can be pivotal in the decision-making process. Sportingbet € 2, ZAR Deposit Bonus Sportingbet South Africa offers a big betting line-up, with over 8, opportunities to wager across 30 different sports every single day. Gift Request Africa Sports Gift has distributed tens of thousands of items of sports equipment to over 16 countries in Africa. The poverty in Africa is extreme and widespread. There are millions of orphans in Africa having lost their parents to violence or disease. In some cases children are forced to live on the streets as their family does not have the resources to care for them. Below are some of the stories from Africa: Bahar Dar is a community of , PinK Girl provides Ehtiopian girls with education and life skill training. Ivory Coast Partner Organization: Athletes In Action Items Donated: AIA provides sports clinics and camps for boys and girls in this country. The goal of this organization is to increase opportunities for youth living in Kisumu and provide opportunities to participate in sporting activities and performing arts. This is the third largest city in Kenya, and home to the largest slum in western Kenya. Manyatta is home to five miles of wall-to-wall mud and metal homes. There are no public services here and authorities have no responsibility to provide safe drinking water or septic services. Many kids cannot afford to stay in school because of the costs of tuition, uniforms, supplies, and others. In Nkhoma region of Malawi, there are approximately 25, people with high illiteracy rates, lack of farming skills and tools, and significant health issues including an HIV-AIDS epidemic resulting in thousands of orphans. In addition, there are approximately 1 million children in Malawi with one or no parents, as well as children caring for ill parents. The mission of this program is to provide community-wide sustainable development and transformation in the areas of water and food security, health care, education, evangelism and discipleship, youth programs and economic development. Sports Gift has donated to this organization to a large degree on multiple occasions. South Africa Partner Organization: The program provides baseball and soccer clinics for children in this community. The equipments were used to serve vulnerable and orphaned young persons both in rural and urban areas without forgetting children and youth on the street. The equipments were used to serve vulnerable and orphaned Ugandan children in the Jinja community. Sports are used as a way to teach the children discipleship and mentorship and give children in the slums and opportunity to participate in a community activity. Campus Crusade for Christ Items Donated: This soccer equipment is used with orphans in Gabarone, Botswana. Gabarone is the capital of Botswana and census put population at ,, with many orphans due to the high aids death rate. The program worked with a feeding station for two weeks and feeding hundreds of various youth daily as well as playing sports with them and giving them attention. When they leave the church, they left the sports equipment for the church to continue to use. Resource Exchange International Items Donated: The goal of this organization is to encourage, equip and empower people in developing nations to strengthen the strategic sectors of their countries. This is a very small country and the people struggle with high unemployment, poor healthcare, lack of educational opportunities, and an absence of natural resources. There are no programs for the youth here. Children here are often sedentary and overweight because of a lack of sports opportunities and healthy diets. Outside of school some children participate in unstructured athletic activities, but there is a lack of resources and parents can be nervous because of fighting and girls are restricted from participating. A group of 1. The Awi are primarily subsistence farmers and herders, and rely on themselves to survive. Very few children actually finish school beyond 3rd grade, as the kids actively participate in farming and herding of the few sheep they may have. Because this program has donated sports equipment, medical supplies and other to the local communities, it has been granted wonderful opportunities to share its faith and reach out to the communities to help. This program serves to develop and improve health care services and infrastructure in under-served regions worldwide. One of its medical mission volunteer trips was to Northwest Ethiopia. The program worked with primary and secondary schools in rural and remote communities of mostly agricultural, impoverished region. It is a very underdeveloped area, meaning basic living accommodations for its residents. Therefore, the sports equipment will benefit the children to spend fun time. Youth Soccer Exchange Items Donated: The mission of this program is to assist youth soccer teams in Ghana acquire the necessary equipment to participate in Youth Leagues in the country. The sports equipment was donated to the Dansoman community, which is made up of young families most of whom are unable to afford school fees for their children. After school, children are expected to help in running a small family business such as selling food or charcoal at a roadside stand. If they are lucky, they get an hour for homework and once a week play sports with friends. Athletes in Action Items Donated: The ultimate goal of AIA is to bring Jesus Christ into the homes of millions worldwide through the use of college athletes competing and ministering globally. AIA built a basketball court in Nairobi, Kenya, which will be used for outreach towards the community and sports team. They will have coaches and players clinics working in slums. The children in the slum have extremely poor living conditions, no access to clean water, or clothes. Azusa Pacific University Items Donated: This organization is travelling to Nyeri to play sports with boys and help them study the bible. This is a very poor community, so the sports equipment will go to the boys in the school, who all live in one big room and have a small box that holds all of their possessions. This equipment is going to a slum near Nairobi with many orphaned kids. This program connects with local schools and community events to distribute the sports equipment. Sports gift has donated to this organization on multiple occasions. The community is full of displaced people. The equipment was donated to Tuikut Village, which is located in the rural region of Mt. Elgon where there is neither running water nor electricity. The size of the community is about 1, people after the Kenyan Civil War in Because of the relatively recent catastrophes, roughly one-third of the children are orphans. Outside of school, the children have a number of family chores. By playing sports and learning teamwork, the past pain caused by the Civil War will be healed, and the children will learn how to work together. The sports equipment will be given to the impoverished people in Rift Valley, Kenya. Twinkle Little Stars Inc. This program is determined to educate, equip and empower the youth of rural Kenya. Through education, vocational skills and personal mentoring, these leaders aim to create harmony among families and the community as a whole. The communities served are predominantly Christian, however many families are influenced by witchcraft, drunkenness and family curses which ultimately results in increased poverty. Peasant farming is predominant in these communities, which places the burden of heavy labor, watching siblings, and caring for ailing parents, on the young children. Kenya Nairobi Partner Organization: Made in the Streets Items Donated: The mission of this organization is to give street children in Nairobi opportunity for a new life. The organization has a Center in the Eastleigh area. All of their young people are initially sleeping on the streets. They go through garbage for food, they beg, they steal, they collect recyclables to sell, they do menial work to get a little money, they use drugs primarily glue, they live in rags and sleep against walls. They use some equipment with youth to play soccer and basketball games. Hands of Mercy Items Donated: This equipment was distributed to help children play in soccer league. Children are too poor to have uniforms and also to play in league. Community is Paynesville, Liberia, which is suburb of capital Monrovia. Liberia is recovering from thirteen years of devastating war. This programs goal is to establish mentorship based sports leagues as an avenue for teaching children morals and values based on biblical teachings. So far, sports leagues in three communities have been developed. Liberia has suffered from a 14 yearlong civil war, depriving children of positive role models and inflicting violence on them. This program emphasizes valuable life skills, such as teamwork, self-esteem, discipline, and respect. Kids Play International Items Donated: The goal of this organization is to increase the quality of life through sports and education. It provides sports focused volunteer trips, promoting interactive and educational sports programs for kids in orphanages and schools. The sports equipment donated will help provide necessary equipment and educational materials to instruct and introduce new sports, thereby teaching the children responsibility, respect, discipline and fair play. The goal of this mission trip is to provide technical support by assisting in sustainable development activities. This equipment will be going to a medium sized local town that has a large emphasis on agricultural production. There is no school nearby, so students must live away from home to attend school. These kids have very few clothes, no sports clothes, and old and damaged shoes. They frequently play soccer barefoot on concrete or on rocky fields with shower sandals. This program wants to host kids and play sports with them, but lacks materials and equipment so must turn some away.

Africa has become a bedrock of vibrant sporting talent that cuts across various disciplines. Sports is widely respected across the continent because it brings people together irrespective of their culture and social affiliation. Today, the sporting industry continues to positively contribute to the African economy. Africa now enjoys an equal opportunity to host high-profile global sporting events that have put Africa on the international sports map. Notable African sports personalities have raised the profile of the continent by excelling in various sporting disciplines and are now global sports personalities. Africa has various different sports, but what are the popular sports in Africa? Football is an incredibly exciting game with origins tracing back to the 1800s when the British, French and Portuguese colonialists introduced the sport to Africa. Unlike other sports, football requires minimal resources, and for this reason, it has penetrated every part of Africa. Football talent in Africa mostly begins at the grassroots level, and for this reason, many football stars began their careers on local football pitches. The proliferation of African football clubs began more than 50 years ago, and since then, the number of professional football clubs and leagues have been on the rise. Today, there are many local, as well as regional and continental football leagues across Africa. Many football clubs in Africa receive sponsorship from the private sector and government, which has increased the popularity of the game. Today, over 100 players drawn from various African teams on the continent play in the first division league in Europe, United States, and South America. Countries well-known for their soccer prowess having performed well in global tournaments include Nigeria, Ghana, South Africa, Cameroon, Tunisia, and Senegal. According to the latest world FIFA rankings released on August 10, 2018, Egypt tops the African continent at position 25 globally with 1,600 points. Democratic Republic of Congo is 2nd in Africa and position 28 globally with 1,500 points, with Senegal in 3rd position on the continent and position 31 globally with 1,400 points. Other African countries are Tunisia in 4th in Africa and 34th position globally with 1,300 points, Cameroon in 5th position in Africa and 35th position globally with 1,200 points, and Nigeria in 6th position in Africa and 38th position in the world with 1,100 points. Football is indeed one of the most loved sports in Africa. Rugby The popularity of rugby has increased rapidly, especially in the recent years when the sport has gained a foothold in a couple of countries in Africa. Did you know South Africa, alone, has over 1,000,000 registered rugby players? Other African countries that have excelled in this sport include Kenya, Namibia, and Ghana. In Kenya, the rugby industry has grown rapidly with the international annual Safari Sevens Tournament attracting participants from all over the world. The number of rugby players has been increasing steadily, with South Africa having over 1,000,000 registered rugby players. On the other hand, Kenya has 40,000 registered players, of whom 3,000 are women and 30,000 are teenagers. Cycling Even though cycling has always been associated with western nations, the sport has increasingly become popular in Africa. Cycling is a fast-growing sensation and very popular in South Africa, which is famous for its scenic and exciting cycling routes. The diverse cycling routes allow participants to encounter various ecosystems to include streets lined with trees and luscious vineyards. Currently in South Africa, there are over 25,000 registered cycling members, of which 2,000 are holders of competitive licenses, track cyclists, paracyclists and BMX cyclists. Eritrea is also seen as an upcoming cycling nation, whose great talent and potential has seen Daniel Teklehaimanot and Merhawi Kudus become the first Africans to participate in Tour de France. What many do not know is that in 1890, Italian colonialists were the first to introduce bicycles in Eritrea, and ever since, cycling has remained a favorite sport. Asmara City is popular for its rich biking culture mostly comprised of unique vintage bikes. Other countries that have taken up cycling as a sport include Algeria and Kenya. Athletics Africa is an athletics powerhouse, especially in field and track events where the continent has performed extremely well in global competitions. There is no doubt that athletics has put Africa on the global map, and these success stories began a couple of decades ago. Excellent talent on the continent has seen African athletes shine and break major world records at high-profile global sporting events. Several countries in Africa are known for their sterling athletic performance to include Kenya, Ethiopia, South Africa, and Algeria. African athletes play a huge role in promoting Africa as a sports continent. In addition, sports tourism has been on a steady incline as a result of the hype and success of athletes. The history of athletics in Africa stretches back to the time of Reggie Walker, a South African sprinter, who became the first African to win an Olympic meter gold medal in . As countries started gaining independence, athletics continued to increase in popularity with many key personalities winning major international races. Kenya has talented athletes to include Kipchoge Keino, who, in , won the meter Olympic gold medal in Mexico. Famous Ethiopian athletes include the late Abebe Bikila, double Olympic champion, and retired Haile Gebrselassie, a long distance track champion. Just like other sports, cricket has become popular and appreciated across the continent. A few decades ago, only white people were allowed to play cricket in South Africa in line with the Apartheid policy. South Africa was banned from participating in international cricket for over 20 years because of apartheid. After the apartheid regime lost power, South Africa was allowed to participate in international cricket tournaments. Cricket is also being used to empower communities with a perfect example being the youthful Maasai Warriors in Kenya, who have abandoned the traditional spear and are using cricket to help fight outlawed Female Genital Mutilation FGM in Kenya. This applaudable community initiative has earned the team a lot of admiration, support, and global recognition. In Nigeria, cricket is the oldest sport with the first official international match played in , twenty years before Nigeria participated in a football match. Today, many African countries are taking part in numerous international cricket matches while posting impressive results. On the other hand, Zimbabwe has played 41 matches, earning points, and a rating of . Wrestling Wrestling has always been part of many African communities since time immemorial, where wrestling matches were common in village arenas. This tradition has continued in many communities to this day, particularly in Senegal, Sudan Nubian communities and Southern Egypt where wrestling is quite popular. Successful wrestlers are well-respected and become famous celebrities. Nubian wrestling dates back over 3, years and is one of the most ancient martial arts. Wrestling is the favorite sport in Senegal ahead of soccer, and has also played a key role in social integration and economic empowerment. Aside from being a sport, it is a perfect representation of African culture and tradition. Senegal is one of the most popular and active national sports hubs in West Africa, and for this reason, Senegalese wrestling is now watched across the borders. Wrestling began in the villages hundreds of years ago, and farmers would go to wrestle to pass the time or watch various fights. During the dry season, the farmers went to the city in search of jobs and realized city dwellers were willing to pay money to watch them wrestle and place bets on matches. Because of poverty, rural dwellers would then fight and entertain the urban dwellers in order to earn money, thus making the sport a favorite in the city. Wrestling matches are lively with singing, dancing, cheering, and also attract large crowds. They mostly take place in sandy areas where wrestlers attempt to bring down their opponents by making their back, knees or shoulders touch the sand. Many African youth see wrestling as a ticket out of poverty, despair and crime. Despite beginning as a traditional sport synonymous with the village, wrestling has become a popular urban sport and there is no doubt the future is bright. Rallying Motor rallies in Africa are known all over the continent and globally, making rallying one of the most popular sports in Africa. The rugged African roads and off-road terrain is a favorite for rally lovers. African rallies are considered to be the most challenging in the world and bring together renowned and upcoming rally drivers. The number of spectators has continued to grow every successive year as various events are staged around the continent. Countries where rallying is common include Kenya, Senegal, Zimbabwe, and Uganda. Launched in , fans come from across the world to witness this spectacular event that receives massive media attention. The Dakar Rally began in and grew to become one of the best known rallies in the world. However, in , security threats compelled organizers to change the venue to South America. This rally was launched as an initiative to revive the excitement associated with rallying. Participants in this rally come from all over the world and only classic cars are permitted to participate in the competition. The route traverses rugged rural landscapes in both Kenya and Tanzania. Despite many rallying tournaments on the continent facing numerous challenges such as lack of adequate sponsorship, the sport is still popular. In recent times, numerous newer and smaller corporate-sponsored rallying events are being held periodically in various countries around the African continent. According to statistics released by FIA, the world motor sport body, Uganda tops the African continent with points in the 27th position nationally.

Rwanda is in 2nd with points and 34th position globally. Zimbabwe takes the 3rd position in Africa and 38th globally with points. Basketball Since its introduction in the s, basketball has increasingly become popular and is played across the continent. When you travel to many African cities, you will see numerous youngsters dressed in sweatshirts, vests and t-shirts with names of famous NBA players. Both public and private schools have availed basketball training facilities that allow youth to better their playing skills. In recent times, the number of professional teams has increased with many basketball clinics organized to improve the quality of basketball. Tunisia is 2nd in Africa and 21st globally with Other Africa countries that feature on the list are Angola at 23rd position with There you have it, these are the top 8 most popular sports in Africa.

Chapter 5 : Sporting Goods Stores in South Africa

Sport in South Africa is still largely seen (in the words of a former member of Women and Sport South Africa) as "the domain of men". In , one writer described "massive gender inequalities in the sporting structures of the country, and a strong association between sport and masculinity".

Like most other sports, South Africa was banned from international Hockey from onwards. In August , the South African Hockey Association was formed, with the aims of "Creat[ing] opportunities for participation without distinction based on colour, race, creed, religion or gender" and to "Redress historical disparities to allow all to participate and compete equally and specifically address the needs of historically disadvantaged communities through special programmes. On the national level, the major competition within South Africa is the Premier Hockey league. This consists of two leagues one men, one women each of six teams. The teams played each other on a round robin tournament and the bottom two teams are eliminated and then play each other to determine 5th and 6th place. The top four teams play in two semi-finals, the 1st against the 3rd and the 2nd against the 4th. The winners of each semi-final then play each other in the final and the losers play each other for 3rd and 4th place. The MSSA looks after the following games: His last fight in the UFC was against Chael Sonnen , who he defeated previously by arm bar submission in round 1 before they both started fighting in the UFC. His record with the UFC was 2 wins and 2 losses. He lost to Clint Hester in the preliminary round via unanimous decision. Fraser signed with EFC after competing on the show. Opie was set to fight Pete Motaung at EFC 34 but was removed from the card due to a dispute about travel arrangements according to Opie and was replaced by former opponent Tumelo Maphutha. While EFC seem to have refused a previously agreed direct flight for Fraser, the agreement appears to have fallen through with EFC only willing to provide indirect flights with a connecting flight that would increase the over all travel time which Opie suggested is simply not possible due to his demanding weight cut. He lost via first-round KO. He lost in round 2 via TKO due to continuous body shots. Gonzaga vs Cro Cop 2 in Krakow , Poland. Jotko pulled out of the fight. He fought another Polishman in Bartorsz Fabinski. He lost via unanimous decision , , Eliasov won via TKO in round 1. Trosse won the fight via unanimous decision and was given the fight against Lino for the vacant title at EFC 60 which she lost. He lost via submission due to a rear naked choke in round 2. It has produced Formula One world champion, Jody Schekter , who triumphed for Ferrari that year. South Africa was also one of the host nations for the A1 Grand Prix. Former Indycar Series driver and son of Jody, Tomas Scheckter , led the most laps in both his first two Indianapolis starts. Which was 85 laps during the Indianapolis and 63 laps during the Indianapolis He has two career Indycar victories during his career. Motor rallying and off-road 4x4 racing are also widely popular in South Africa. Rugby league in South Africa Rugby league XIII , is a growing spectator sport in South Africa in recent years it has struggled to gain a foothold in the country due to the popularity of sports such as football soccer , rugby union, cricket and even Australian rules football and also due to their location meaning a lack of meaningful international matches.
