The mirror may show a man of a certain age, but the inner man says 25, so we pause to drop and give you Give us a moment. The heart rate is steady enough to type again, and the fine Virginia tobacco curling in our lungs is allowing us to think great thoughts and deliver them, as Athena sprang from the brow of Zeus, fully formed to a waiting world. We can only imagine the new president dueling with Janet Yellen and brethren via Twitter. Trump, the Wharton School graduate, will declare victory, knowing nobody on his side knows the Fed is draining reserves. Trumpians will hardly be able to catch their breath, though, before the repeal of Obamacare restores the delivery of healthcare to its former glory before the socialists ruined things. Again, no one will notice. According to the St. Louis Fed, profits were 5. Ironically, though, the election of Mr. Trump and the strong showing by Bernie Sanders in the Democratic Party tussle for that matter was in large part driven by a sense that the billionaire real estate developer could reverse that trend. If he delivers, and the scale starts to tip toward labor, it seems fair to conclude that market participants would consider current valuations too high. All that is rather long-term, though. In the shorter run, the biggest risk to equities is likely to be the unforeseen shock. Of course, that fatuous observation is always a shadow on the investment horizon, but we think the probability is greater in the age of Trump. They may well succeed, but a geopolitical or domestic political crisis is probably a greater risk than usual. We also think the market is just beginning to consider the fallout from protectionism and the risk of diminished global trade implicit in Mr. Still, all could go well. The path in could very well resemble the magical golf hole we traversed recently. We approached the narrow, yard par three lined on both sides with towering old pines. Our first shot was well-struck, but alas, it hooked square into the trunk of one of them, the ball landing in the short fairway. We then smacked a wedge into a pine on the right side, the ball caroming further back on the fairway. Chagrined but unbowed, we wielded the wedge once more. A delicious collision of blade, ball and turf sent a shiver of pleasure through our athletic pose. The dimpled sphere bounced once on the green. Then, just as we feared it would bounce off, it miraculously hit the stick and dropped into the hole. The greatest par save of our career – successful but a harrowing ride. Investing in could be something like that.

Trump also made two inaccurate claims concerning special counsel Robert S. Well, look, I would never want to get involved in that. Certainly he, they just seem like very criminal acts to me. What he did was criminal. What he did was a terrible thing to people. What he did was so bad in terms of our constitution in terms of the well-being of our country. What he did was horrible. Should he be locked up? Let somebody make a determination. Look at all the dishonest things that crooked Hillary did. A few moments later, Doocy said: Comey admitted that he concealed his intentions from the Department until the morning of his press conference on July 5, and instructed his staff to do the same, to make it impracticable for Department leadership to prevent him from delivering his statement. We found that it was extraordinary and insubordinate for Comey to do so, and we found none of his reasons to be a persuasive basis for deviating from well-established Department policies in a way intentionally designed to avoid supervision by Department leadership over his actions. Look, we have 13 angry democrats. There are 13 angry democrats and others work for Obama for eight years. I mean if you look at the results and if you look at the head investigator is saying we have to stop Trump from becoming president. There was no collusion. There was no obstruction. Strzok was assigned to lead the Russia investigation in July Mueller was appointed special counsel in May In one exchange on Aug. But the Washington Post did find that 13 of the 17 investigators on the team are registered Democrats. The four others have no party affiliation or no record of one. At the time, the Post reported that Mueller was a registered Republican. One investigator has given to Democrats and Republicans. See our March story on this for more information.
