Chapter 1 : The Official Illustrated History of Manchester United The Full - MUFC - Google Books

Renamed Manchester United in after financial problems, the new club would soon go on to win the league title and the FA Cup. It was just the beginning of one of the most remarkable and gripping stories in sport.

Turn professional in 1888. Join the football league in 1892 but endure 10 seasons of mediocrity, with only two years spent in the First Division. The club becomes Manchester United in 1902 and enter the top flight again in 1919. Win the championship in 1913, scoring league-record 82 goals. Beat Bristol City, 1908, to win FA Cup. Win championship in 1908 but manager Ernest Mangnall leaves to join cross-town Manchester City. United struggle both financially and on the field as the war leaves the team decimated and the new, costly stadium empty. They win promotion in 1919 but spend the rest of the decade fighting relegation. Less than 10,000, become an average gate. By the end of 31, bankruptcy looms large but James Gibson saves the club with a donation of 2,000 pounds. Gibson becomes club president. Stability is hard to find. Return to Old Trafford after almost eight years away after the ground was bombed during the war. Bobby Charlton begins to shine and the club signs Denis Law. United win the FA Cup in 1962 to signal their intentions and a year-old George Best makes his debut. They beat Benfica in extra time and just 10 years after Munich, United are European champions, the first English team to lift the trophy. United are relegated in 1974 as Denis Law, who was released by Doeherty, scores for Manchester City against United, sending them down to Division 2. They are promoted the following year but fail to make their mark and the Doc is sacked in 1975, just two months after winning the FA Cup, and replaced by Dave Sexton. Sexton leads United to another FA Cup final in 1975 but is sacked in 1976. Despite success in the 1975 and FA Cup finals, Atkinson fails to deliver the league title, which United craves. Alex Ferguson is named manager in 1986 and has to survive a tough early period, with the club still desperate for the league crown. Cup final and the Cup Winners Cup the following season, sparking the outstanding run of recent years. Six premiership titles and five FA Cups are won domestically. Each chapter will also contain box outs concentrating on key players of the decade.
