

Chapter 1 : The Spirit of Prayer " by Nathaniel Vincent - A Puritan's Mind and C. Matthew McMahon on V

The Spirit of Prayer by Nathaniel Vincent Nathaniel Vincent () was a nonconformist puritan divine. His colleagues called him "smart brisk and well-rounded as a minister of the Gospel, holding a facetious and jolly humor, as well as being a considerable scholar."

A Covert from the Storm , London, , 8vo written in prison. The Spirit of Prayer , London, , 8vo; republished, , 8vo; 5th edit. Hopkins, , London, A Heaven or Hell upon Earth, London, , 8vo. The True Touchstone, London, , 8vo. The More Excellent Way, London, The Principles of the Doctrine of Christ: The Cure of Distractions in attending upon God. The dates of the last three do not appear. Vincent was much in request for preaching funeral sermons; five or six were printed in quarto. He edited the Morning Exercise against Popery London, , 4to , twenty- five sermons preached in his pulpit at Southwark by eminent divines. Biography of Nathaniel Vincent ? Of nonconformist leanings, he was driven there by his bishop, as well as from so many other livings that it was said no two of his seven children were born in the same county. Coming to London in , he was nominated by the committee of the Westminster assembly to the rich rectory of Sedgefield, Durham, but died after holding it but two years, in His widow, Sarah Vincent, petitioned on Nov. The second son, Thomas, is separately noticed. Nathaniel, the third son, entered Oxford University as a chorister on Oct. He was appointed by Cromwell one of the first fellows of Durham University, but never lived there. At twenty he was preaching at Pulborough, Sussex, and at twenty-one was ordained and presented to the rectory of Langley Marish, Buckinghamshire. There he was ejected on St. About Vincent went to London. There his preaching at once attracted attention, and a meeting-house was shortly built for him in Farthing Alley, Southwark, where he gathered a large congregation. In spite of fines and rough handling by soldiers sent to drag him from his pulpit, he continued boldly preaching during the stormy times. In July , soon after his marriage, he was confined in the Marshalsea prison. He was removed to the Gatehouse, Westminster, on Aug. He remained six months in prison. A flaw, however, was perceived in the indictment, and, after the section expenditure of l. His funeral sermon was preached by Nathaniel Taylor. His wife Anna and six children were living in A daughter Anna married, on 4 Dec. Taken in part from the National Dictionary of Biography, public Domain.

Chapter 2 : The Spirit of Prayer von Nathaniel Vincent (E-Book) â€™ Lulu DE

The Spirit of Prayer, 2nd Edition by Nathaniel Vincent () Updated in this second edition are some text layout issues, some text corrections and a new table of contents that covers all the sections in the entire book.

Of nonconformist leanings, he was driven thence by his bishop, as well as from so many other livings that it was said no two of his seven children were born in the same county. Coming to London in , he was nominated by the committee of the Westminster assembly to the rich rectory of Sedgefield, Durham, but died after holding it but two years, in . His widow, Sarah Vincent, petitioned on 1 Nov. The second son, Thomas, is separately noticed. Nathaniel, the third son, entered Oxford University as a chorister on 18 Oct. He was appointed by Cromwell one of the first fellows of Durham University, but never lived there. At twenty he was preaching at Pulborough, Sussex, and at twenty-one was ordained and presented to the rectory of Langley Marish, Buckinghamshire. Thence he was ejected on St. About Vincent went to London. There his preaching at once attracted attention, and a meeting-house was shortly built for him in Farthing Alley, Southwark, where he gathered a large congregation. In spite of fines and rough handling by soldiers sent to drag him from his pulpit, he continued boldly preaching during the stormy times. In July , soon after his marriage, he was confined in the Marshalsea prison. He was removed to the Gatehouse, Westminster, on 22 Aug. He remained six months in prison. A flaw, however, was perceived in the indictment, and, after the section expenditure of l. His funeral sermon was preached by Nathaniel Taylor. His wife Anna and six children were living in . A daughter Anna married, on 4 Dec. Hopkins, , London, Vincent was much in request for preaching funeral sermons; five or six were printed in quarto. Wood, Life and Times, ii.

Chapter 3 : The Armor of God “ by Paul Bayne ()

Nathaniel Vincent (c?) was an English nonconformist minister, ejected in and several times imprisoned.. Life. He was probably born in Cornwall about , son of John Vincent (), who was nominated by the committee of the Westminster Assembly to the rectory of Sedgfield, Durham.

Life[edit] He was probably born in Cornwall about , son of John Vincent “ , who was nominated by the committee of the Westminster Assembly to the rectory of Sedgfield , Durham. Nathaniel, the third son, entered Oxford University as a chorister on 18 October , aged He was appointed by Oliver Cromwell one of the first fellows of his Durham University , but never resided there. At twenty he was preaching at Pulborough , Sussex , and at twenty-one was ordained and presented to the rectory of Langley Marish , Buckinghamshire. He was ejected in , after which he lived three years as chaplain to Sir Henry and Lady Blount at Tyttenhanger House , Hertfordshire. About Vincent went to London. There his preaching at once attracted attention, and a meeting-house was built for him in Farthing Alley, Southwark , where he gathered a congregation. In spite of fines and rough handling by soldiers sent to drag him from his pulpit, he continued preaching. In July , soon after his marriage, he was confined in the Marshalsea prison. He was removed to the Gatehouse, Westminster , on 22 August. He remained six months in prison. Vincent was released, but weakened by illness. Some of his books were written in prison. Vincent died suddenly on 22 June , in the fifty-ninth year of his age. He was buried at Bunhill Fields. His funeral sermon was preached by Nathaniel Taylor. His wife Anna and six children were living in A daughter Anna married, on 4 December , Dennis Herbert, jun. Works[edit] He wrote: Hopkins, , London, Vincent was much in request for preaching funeral sermons; five or six were printed in quarto. He edited the Morning Exercise against Popery London, , twenty-five sermons preached in his pulpit at Southwark by visiting divines.

Chapter 4 : The Spirit of Prayer von C. Matthew McMahon (Paperback) “ Lulu DE

Nathaniel Vincent () was a nonconformist puritan divine. His colleagues called him "smart brisk and well-rounded as a minister of the Gospel, holding a facetious and jolly humor, as well as being a considerable scholar."

Chapter 5 : Meditation Can Fuel Prayer by Nathaniel Vincent () | A Puritan's Mind

The Spirit of Prayer - Ebook written by Nathaniel Vincent, C. Matthew McMahon. Read this book using Google Play Books app on your PC, android, iOS devices. Download for offline reading, highlight, bookmark or take notes while you read The Spirit of Prayer.

Chapter 6 : Nathaniel Vincent () | A Puritan's Mind

The Spirit of Prayer - Kindle edition by Nathaniel Vincent, C. Matthew McMahon, Therese B. McMahon. Download it once and read it on your Kindle device, PC, phones or tablets. Use features like bookmarks, note taking and highlighting while reading The Spirit of Prayer.

Chapter 7 : The Spirit of Prayer 2nd Edition - Nathaniel Vincent - A Puritan's Mind on Vimeo

The Spirit of Prayer, 2nd Edition, by Nathaniel Vincent () Updated in this second edition are some text layout issues, some text corrections and a new table of contents that covers all the sections in the entire book.

Chapter 8 : Nathaniel Vincent - Wikipedia

Nathaniel Vincent () was a nonconformist puritan divine. His colleagues called him "smart brisk and well-rounded as a minister of the Gospel, holding a facetious and jolly humor, as.

Chapter 9 : The Spirit of Prayer – by Nathaniel Vincent ()

Nathaniel Vincent () was a nonconformist puritan divine. His colleagues called him "smart brisk and well-rounded as a minister of the Gospel, The Spirit of Prayer - by Nathaniel Vincent - A Puritan's Mind and C. Matthew McMahon on Vimeo.