However, purchasing adult costumes can quickly become expensive. Fortunately, you can make a costume from a few basic items of clothing found in your wardrobe or local thrift store. With a little imagination and a few accessories, you can create unique and easy adult Halloween costumes. Video of the Day Mother Nature A Mother Nature costume requires only a flowing dress or skirt and blouse outfit with a vest as its foundation. Pin or glue silk flowers to the skirt and vest, and drape leaf garlands around your waist and neck. Add random leaves in a falling pattern. Cut a length of garland long enough to make a head wreath and attach a few flowers to it. Pin a small foam bird to your shoulder or wrap a garland around your wrist and glue the bird to the garland. Flowers, leaves and birds are available at craft stores. Tourist A tourist costume works for both men and women. Men can wear wildly printed Hawaiian shirts, shorts, sandals with white socks, straw hats and sunglasses, while women can wear wildly printed dresses or blouses with pants, sun hats, sandals and sunglasses. Either sex should carry a big straw shopping bag. Stop by a travel agency to pick up a tourist bag, some maps and travel brochures. Hang a camera around your neck. Whomever carries the map should wear reading glasses hanging on a chain. Make a buckle for the shoes from gold cardboard by cutting rectangular holes out of a rectangular piece of cardboard, and attaching them to your shoes. Purchase some toy figurines and attach them to different lengths of cord or string. Tie some around your arms, legs, torso and head, wrapping each body part a few times to make it look like the Lilliputians were trying to tie you down. Car Air Freshener Use dark green felt or other heavy fabric that does not fray to start this costume. Purchase a length long enough to cover you from the front of your thighs to their backs. Fold the fabric in half and cut it into two pieces in the shape of a simple Christmas tree. Stitch the sides together, leaving armholes open. Use construction paper to create a labels similar in design to that of a real car air freshener. Ladybug A ladybug costume starts with a pair of black sweatpants, a black sweatshirt, a pair of black shoes and black socks. Cut an oval from red poster board. It should be big enough to cover your back. Paint large black spots randomly on the oval. Make shoulder straps to attach the oval to your back by creating two loops of black elastic, big enough to pull over the arms, and stapling them to either side of the oval. Glue two pom-poms to the end of black pipe cleaners wrapped onto a headband as antenna.

The costumes ideas are fun and innovative, the food ideas are also really cute, but not overly-complicated. While some classic ideas never die, this book puts a nice twist on things like "body parts" games.

Step 1 Pull the purple and black polka dot sheets and the purple and black striped sheets out of your paper pack. Open folded sheet of paper and cut along the fold line with your paper cutter. Next fold each newly created half in half again. Again, open your folded sheets and cut along the fold lines. Repeat steps with your remaining 3 sheets of paper. Step 7 Next attach opposite designs of paper. This ensures that your square sheets of paper stick firmly together. Carefully align the edges of paper together and press firmly to attach. Step 9 Continue repeating steps 7 and 8 until all of your squares are attached. Set finished squares off to the side. Step 10 Next find the sheets in your Halloween paper stack that have tags on them. See picture for references. Pull out one sheet. Cut out all of the tags. Start assembling the fronts of your invitations following the formula listed below for each: You can measure these if you want but I chose to just eyeball it. Uneven sizes kind of fit with the Halloween vibe. Mount your stamp on an acrylic block. You will notice that my stamp is for a shower invitation however it still contains all of the pertinent information for an R. By inking only the parts I want I am able to use this stamp for any invitation. Step 15 Ink your stamp and press firmly onto the bottom two-thirds of your orange cardstock piece. Do this for each one. Step 16 Next use your hole punch to put holes in the top corners of each piece of stamped cardstock. Then thread the loose end through the top right hole of the orange cardstock and secure it with a second brad. Step 21 Repeat steps 18 through 20 for the remaining pieces of cardstock. Step 22 Attach your pieces of cardstock to the back of your invitations by placing a glue dot on each back corner of the cardstock and pressing firmly to the center of your invitations. Step 23 Lastly, add your little Halloween stickers to the bottom left corner of your orange cardstock. See the picture above for reference. Looking for a deal at Oriental Trading? Chapter 3 : My Puzzle Palooza Page

This wickedly easy Halloween wreath is the perfect way to do just that. This Halloween craft project is simple to assemble, and it makes a big statement when added to your front door. But don't limit yourself to placing this wreath outdoors.

Beware the Ghost Horse! These horse Halloween costume ideas are fun and simple. The easiest costumes use paints. Paints are comfortable, durable, and cannot blow in the wind or startle your horse. Tempera paints can temporarily stain a white coat! Many of the colors do not show up well on a black horse, especially the darker colors. Brown horse hair is similar, but you can get the colors to show if you paint on several layers. For clean up, wash your horse with water and a curry comb. The War Horse Halloween Costume War horse halloween costume War horse face armor with slits on 3 sides Face armor attached to bridle This War Horse Halloween costume will require a bit of construction on your part. War Horse Face Armor: Cut eye holes out of your fly mask. Spray the mask silver. Line the edges of your fly mask with duct tape. Cut the cardboard into the shape shown this one is 21"W x 22" H. Spray silver and line the edges with duct tape. Cut 2 one inch parallel slits on the three ends that will attach to your bridle. Thread the cheek pieces and top of your bridle through the slits in the cardboard. This will firmly secure the face armor. War horse breast plate War Horse Breast Plate: Cut a piece of cardboard out for the breast plate. Spray it silver and line the edges with tape. Paint a coat of arms symbol on it if you wish. Thick tipped black permanent marker works great. Use it to outline your symbol. To attach the breast plate to your breast collar, fold tabs over the breast collar and tape from behind. You will be making large long tapaderos. Tapaderos are Spanish stirrup covers. Cut out two pieces of cardboard to fit to the stirrups using the pattern shown. These ones are 14"H x 17"W. It does not need to be exact. Spray the cardboard silver and line the edges with duct tape. Attach the covers to your stirrups using duct tape or twine. War horse tapaderos Optional: Drape a piece of cloth over your saddle blanket, or over your entire saddle if you wish to hide it. Cover a helmet in duct tape and add cardboard cheek pieces to it to create an armored helmet. Make a cardboard shield for yourself and carry a large chunky medieval type sword. Even better, consider buying a pre-made armored costume for yourself! All you need for this is red and blue paint. The little horse in this picture had no interest in allowing us to add the Red, White and Blue accessories we had purchased. But as you can see, he came out looking pretty cute anyway! Patriotic horse Halloween costume Had he tolerated more, we would have added garland and ribbons to his tail and mane. A flag themed saddle blanket and decorated breast color would work well with this costume. No need to buy a saddle blanket, just cover your saddle pad with a yard of patriotic themed fabric from the fabric store. For the rider, I would suggest blue jeans and a Western style flag print shirt. Spray paint a straw hat and decorate it with stars, a flag bandana or whatever suits you. White lines can be painted on any dark horse and black lines on a light horse. Consider draping some African print fabric over your saddle pad, or completely over your saddle. For the rider, dress in African inspired garb. Will your horse let you carry a long shield and spear? A big dramatic African head piece for the rider would look awesome with this costume! This would also work great with a Mayan themed costume: Zebra Horse Halloween Back to Top The Clown Horse Halloween Costume To create a clown horse Halloween costume you will need tempera paints in several bright colors, several large and medium sized pom-poms and one yard of spotted fabric or other clown inspired fabric. Start by painting spots all over your horse. Make them in bright colors of green, yellow, red, orange, blue pink and so on. The circles can be all one size or different sizes. Drape the cloth over your saddle blanket. Attach more pom-poms to the edges of your saddle blanket if you wish. For the rider, dress as a clown. Paint spider webs all over your horse. Use white paint for a dark horse and black paint for a light horse. Dress yourself as a witch. Paint a horse skeleton on your horse. If your horse is a Pinto, paint the spots out with a solid color to match the rest of the coat before you paint the skeleton on. Boy Zombie Rider For the rider, dress as a zombie. Ripped up jeans, bloody, ratty shirt and all the gory makeup you can muster! Hang bits of tea stained gauze from your bridle and larger pieces over your saddle pad to complete the look. Need a skeleton guide? Back to Top The Princess Horse Halloween Costume To create the princess horse Halloween costume you will need decorative trim and yards shiny, sparkly or metallic fabric. The princess horse is bejeweled in sparkling gems and rich flowing fabrics. Use decorative trim with dangling beads to create a bejeweled bridal. Attach the trim to the cheek pieces and brow band of your bridal. If you have enough you may also want to attach some trim to a portion of the reins. Use fishing line to secure the trim to your bridle. Drape your cloth over your saddle pad or the entire saddle if you wish. Use enough fabric that it hangs down and flows out as the horse moves. For extra decoration, line the fabric with more beaded trim. Princess Horse Breast Collar: Create a breast collar fit for royalty with yards of your chosen fabric. Scrunch the fabric together accordion style. Fine lightweight fabric works best. Tie 3 knots in the fabric six inches apart, with one knot in the center. Princess Legs and Hooves: Use vet wrap to wrap your horses lower legs. Then wrap a strip of your decorative material over the vet wrap. You can use a spray adhesive to secure it. Add ribbon and beads to the mane and tail if you wish. The more elaborate the better. Let the royal games begin! This costume revolves around a Sphinx inspired headpiece worn by your horse.
